

No more surprises, Nixon promises governors

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — President Nixon has promised Republican governors he will dispel the Watergate shadow on their political futures and has apologized for any trouble he has caused them.

The President also told a closed session of the winter meeting of the Republican Governors Association that he knows of no other scandals that could add to their embarrassment.

"The President looked at us around the room and said, 'I'm sorry if I have added to your burden,'" Tennessee Gov. Winfield Dunn said after the governors had listened for almost two hours to Nixon's Watergate defense Tuesday.

Gov. Robert D. Ray, whose state of Iowa will hold gubernatorial elections next year, was asked what effect Nixon might have for Republicans campaigning in 1974.

"I think a little more time will tell whether he will be an asset or a liability in a campaign," Ray replied. "And he brought this up himself."

"He wants to help in every way he can. The thing that will help the most, of course, will be if he can clear up Watergate."

Governors said on leaving the closed meeting that Nixon made the strongest promises yet for full disclosure of all the facts he has about the problems that began when burglars were arrested inside Democratic party headquarters on June 17, 1972.

"He indicated a number of papers will be issued clearly responding to the questions which have been raised," Dunn said. He said those questions included the President's personal finances, the ITT affair and the milk-price case.

"Every question we asked was answered in full," Missouri Gov. Christopher S. Bond said. "And he indicated an additional four- or five-point program to continue answering, in the courts, in open news sessions, through documents he expects to release and by fuller answers to the most asked questions."

Nixon also declared that, so far as he knows, no further unpleasant revelations are likely to embarrass those who stand by him.

"He said if there are, he is not aware of them," Dunn said. "If there is any information yet to be revealed, it's information he does not have."

The session, the President's third Southern stop in four days, was similar to a series he held last week at the White House with congressional Republicans to explain his side of the Watergate controversy and ask for support.

Oregon Gov. Tom McCall, who has called for Nixon to save GOP candidates from disaster next year by clearing up Watergate before the elections, said the governors were encouraged by the meeting.

"I think they left with a sense of relief that the President was relaxed, in complete control of himself," McCall said. "I've never seen a more conversational meeting."

"It was a free-wheeling session of questions and answers," said California Gov. Ronald Reagan. "The President couldn't have been more frank."

Before meeting with the governors, Nixon spoke briefly to a crowd estimated by police at 5,000 across the street from the convention hotel on the Mississippi River bluffs.

"How much better your future looks now than it did when I came into office," Nixon told them, citing disengagement from Vietnam, peace in the Middle East and relatively low unemployment as proof.

"We have got some problems," Nixon said. "They are serious problems in terms of our energy, but that is a problem that exists all over the world."

"And all I can say is the greatness about America is that, when we've got problems, we just get out and solve them."

Energy crisis helps boost cost of living

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose sharply last month following September's slowdown, owing partly to the energy crisis and higher prices for fuel oil and gasoline, the government said today.

The Department of Labor reported that the cost of living climbed eight-tenths of one per cent in October and pushed consumer prices up 7.9 per cent above a year ago. It marked the largest jump in any 12-month period since the 8.7-per cent inflationary rate recorded in the June 1950-51 period at the start of the Korean War.

In addition to sharply higher prices for gasoline and fuel oil, rising costs for clothing, mortgage interest rates and health insurance contributed significantly to the October rise in prices, the government said.

A decline in meat and poultry prices was more than offset in the statistics by large increases in prices of restaurant meals and some food and some grocery store prices.

Food prices rose one-tenth of a per cent following a drop of seven-tenths of a per cent in September and a record 6 per cent jump in August. The increase was larger on a seasonally adjusted basis, increasing five-tenths of a per cent compared with a drop of one-tenth of a per cent on that basis on September.

Grocery prices actually declined three-tenths of a per cent but the drop was offset by a 1.8-per cent jump in food purchased away from home, including restaurant meals and snacks.

Poultry, egg and pork prices fell sharply again—as they did in September —and prices for beef and veal declined as well, but prices for most other food sold in grocery stores went up, the government said.

Prices for nonfood commodities jumped nine-tenths of one per cent, sharpest this year and the biggest jump since a one per cent increase in October 1970. Seasonally adjusted, the increase was five-tenths of a per cent. Services, including rents, mortgage payments and medical fees rose 1.1 per cent, an increase not equalled since March 1970.

The over-all rise in living costs last month followed a three-tenths of a per cent rise in September and the near-record jump of 1.8 per cent in August after the lifting of the government's price freeze.

Although food price increases have moderated, the price spurt in nonfood commodities and services appears to reflect an economy still gripped in inflation.

The consumer price index in October moved up to 136.6, meaning that it cost consumers $13.66 to purchase a variety of goods that cost $10 in the 1967 base period.

The Labor Department also reported that real spendable earnings of American workers, which is the take-home pay after taxes, fell six-tenths of a per cent in October and was 3.3 per cent below a year ago.

No peace without Israeli security, Kissinger says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has warned there can be no peace if Israel's security is endangered.

Speaking Tuesday night at a dinner for Abba Eban, the Israeli foreign minister, Kissinger said the United States and Israel have finally achieved "the direct negotiations that was their goal."

"Together we shall achieve a just and lasting peace as we together have met the challenges of the past."

Kissinger was scheduled to brief senators today on the outlook for peace in the Middle East.

Eban, who sees Kissinger late this afternoon, said "I think we should try very hard to find points of disagreement but I do not think we shall find any." The foreign minister expressed gratitude for arms during the Yom Kippur war for deterring the Russians and for bringing about a cease-fire. He said he was looking forward to negotiations and "the adventure of looking for peace."

Kissinger was not expected to attend the dinner, held at the residence of Ambassador Simcha Dinitz. But in a brief appearance, he told the guests, including Sens. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., that "there will be no peace in the world if something happens to endanger the security of Israel."

Kissinger told the Senate Foreign Relations committee Tuesday that prospects are favorable for a start of Arab-Israeli peace talks next month.

His reference to "direct negotiations" at the dinner was a pleasing note for the Israelis. They have insisted for years that a Middle East settlement must be built on face-to-face bargaining with the Arabs. But the Arabs have resisted dealing directly with representatives of the Jewish state.

Kenneth Rush, the undersecretary of state, said "Israel has a world of friends" but added: "Israel has to work for U.S. friendship, not take it for granted."

Care assured for 'sleeping beauty'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 20-year-old "sleeping beauty" who has been in a coma for 18 months would get $2 million in a proposed out-of-court settlement, her attorney says.

Barbara Brader, a former grocery clerk, received permanent damage after she was given an overdose of anesthetic at a Sunnyvale clinic, attorney Bruce Walkup said Tuesday.

"Barbara is a sleeping beauty," the San Francisco attorney said. "She has been in a coma with her eyes open since June 6, 1972. She is completely flaccid like a doll — not spastic, just completely limp."

"She can be put in a chair. She makes noises, cries out and weeps, but she cannot talk."

Walkup called the settlement by the clinic and a Sunnyvale pharmacy the largest such out-of-court personal injury settlement in the country.

He said the proposed settlement would be submitted today to Santa Clara County Superior Court Judge John Brenner.

The lawyer said Miss Brader was given the overdose accidentally at the Sunnyvale Medical Clinic when a radiologist ordered a one per cent solution of cocaine to be used as a local anesthetic.

"By mistake, the pharmacy supplied 10 per cent cocaine and so marked the bottle," he said.

"The doctor took the bottle, sprayed the cocaine and Barbara suffered a cardiac arrest — her heart stopped beating. This blocked oxygen to the brain and caused the permanent damage."

Emergency measures saved her life but she has remained in a coma, he said. She has been in El Camino Hospital at Mountain View since the accident, with around-the-clock care costing $45,000 a year, he added.

The settlement involves payment of $1.5 million by the clinic and $500,000 by the Arminini Pharmacy, which supplied the medication. It also asks the court to make Crocker Bank guardian to invest the award in a trust for Miss Brader.

FBI refuses to talk about its contacts with Nixon pal Rebozo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite an oft-stated policy of candor, FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley says the agency will tell the public nothing about a Miami FBI agent's contacts with President Nixon's friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

Kelley directed Tuesday that the agency refuse answers to several key questions which could either support or contradict an account Nixon has given a group of Republican congressmen.

At Kelley's order, FBI spokesmen say they will not answer the questions because of the confidentiality of a Senate Watergate committee staff interview with the agent, Kenneth W. Whittaker, who is in charge of the Miami office.

But Robert Franck, assistant FBI director in charge of the external affairs division, said the committee had not requested the FBI to keep silent about Whittaker's contacts with Rebozo.

W. Hall Smith, a spokesman for committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., said he was amazed that the FBI would cite the committee staff interview as a reason for refusing to answer questions about the situation.

self first mentioned the episode does not alter Kelley's decision for secrecy.

At a Friday meeting with the congressmen, Nixon spoke about the $100,000 political contribution given to Rebozo for the Nixon campaign by industrialist Howard Hughes. Rebozo has said he received the money in 1970 and kept it in a safe deposit box until returning it last June.

Questions have arisen about whether the money Rebozo returned was the same cash he received, or whether the sum initially received might have been used in some way before it was returned.

Nixon told the congressmen that Rebozo "had the FBI check it out," according to Rep. Charles W. Whalen, R-Ohio, who took notes on the session.

Nixon said the FBI took fingerprints from the currency and checked the serial numbers of the bills, Whalen told a reporter. "He left the implication that the serial numbers checked with the same money received two years earlier, but he didn't say that," the congressman reported.

In Tuesday editions, the New York Times identified Whittaker as the agent involved in the episode and described him as a personal friend of Rebozo.

The Times reported that Whittaker has told superiors that in response to Rebozo's request, he informed Rebozo he could not verify that the cash returned was identical to the cash received.

Whalen questioned why the FBI was involved. "In the first place, what's the FBI doing there? Under whose authority?" he asked.

Newsman put the same question to FBI spokesmen who refused comment. Franck and other spokesmen also refused to answer these questions:

—Is Whittaker a personal friend of Rebozo?

—Did Rebozo ask the agent to inspect the money and did Whittaker do so? When did this take place?

—Did Whittaker or anyone else in the FBI run checks on fingerprints and serial numbers from the money as Nixon stated?

Kelley was unavailable to newsmen Tuesday.

After receiving numerous inquiries from newsmen, the FBI issued a statement, cleared by Kelley, Tuesday night.

Churches granted immunity from state inspection during dinners

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Legislators granted immunity Tuesday to churches which had objected to state sanitation supervision of their banquets and luncheons.

The decision by the legislature's Joint Committee for Review of Administrative Rules was opposed by the state health chairman, Dr. George Handy.

Churches had objected to a rule under which they were required to obtain a routine restaurant permit if they planned to serve public meals four or more days in the course of a year.

The rule did not apply to a meal served exclusively for members of a civic or church group.

The state provided permit applicants with health consultants to check sanitation of kitchen equipment, offer serving advice and instruct volunteer kitchen workers in sanitary handling of food.

Handy appealed for continued application of the rule for churches, saying disease from spoiled or mishandled food can strike a churchgoer just as painfully as a civic club's guest or a restaurant patron.

"My point is: are we, as the Division of Health, responsible for all the people or just those who do not belong to certain organizations?" he said.

Handy cited a northern Wisconsin church which, with a limited kitchen capacity, wound up trying to serve 600 persons, 125 of which were infected with food poisoning and one of which died.

"I do not think it makes any difference to the 125 people who were stricken whether they had on their cross or were wearing a fraternal emblem," he said.

The legislative committee had been petitioned by church officials to suspend the rule.

Critics of the rule had said it was extended to churches on the recommendation of a study panel heavy with restauranters who were accused of disliking the competition from church fund-raising meals.

The legislative committee told the Department of Health and Social Services to draft a new rule with the help of another study panel whose members include church representatives.

Churches had been exempted since 1957 from the permit requirement. The department adopted the church-inclusive rule earlier this year after Handy's Division of Health requested a definition of his health inspectors' responsibilities for supervising public meals.

Republican Rep. Tommy Thompson of Elroy censured the selection of members for the original study panel.

Democratic Rep. Michael Ferrall of Racine complained that the panel had restauranters and tavern proprietors but no appreciable church representation.

Democratic Rep. Joanne Duren of Cazenovia said the rule was confusing and ought to be rewritten.

Forms for faster, easier filing developed by IRS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Improved income tax forms to make filing easier and faster have been announced by Internal Revenue Commissioner Donald C. Alexander.

And, Alexander urged employers Tuesday to distribute W-2 withholding statements as early as possible to enable employees to file early.

Taxpayers who file for refunds in January usually receive them within four to five weeks, while persons filing later may have to wait up to eight weeks because of the greater volume of returns being processed, Alexander said.

He noted that at any rate W-2 forms generally must be distributed by Jan. 31.

Among the changes in the forms this year is inclusion of the campaign fund donation checkoff on the form itself. It was on a separate form last year, drawing criticism of the IRS.

Alexander said the new form will give taxpayers an opportunity to contribute retroactively from their 1972 returns if they wish.

Several other changes were noted, including:

—Reduction in the number of revenue sharing questions to a single question.

—Elimination of Schedule B for reporting details of dividends and interest.

—Elimination of income limitations for using the 1040A short form.

—Elimination of the requirement to list contributions for which the taxpayer has canceled checks or receipts.

—Elimination of the requirement to list names and dates for claiming payments to doctors, dentists and hospitals.

Alexander estimated that more than 81 million individual returns will be filed before next April 15, compared to 79 million this year.

NOW urges Lucey to veto bill

MADISON — The Wisconsin National Organization for Women (NOW), at its state council meeting in Ripon Saturday, passed a resolution urging Governor Patrick Lucey to veto Senate Bill 338.

The bill would permit Wisconsin hospitals, both public and private, to refuse to allow their facilities to be used for abortions and/or sterilizations.

NOW's resolution points out that "no person should be coerced to perform any procedure which conflicts with her or his religious beliefs."

"Health care institutions, however," the resolution continues, "have a respensibility to provide complete medical services to the communities they serve. "The effect of S.B. 338 is that it discriminates against the poor, and it discriminates against women."

Susan Mattes, Wisconsin NOW Reproduction Task Force coordinator, explained: "There are several areas in the state which are serviced only by church-operated hospitals. If these hospitals refuse to perform abortions and/or sterilizations on the basis of this bill, the people who will suffer are the poor who cannot afford to travel to other parts of the state to obtain these services."

"Furthermore, S.B. 338 discriminates against women by allowing hospitals to refuse to perform sterilization procedures. Men can obtain vasectomies in a doctor's office or clinic. Women, however, must have a tubal ligation performed only in a hospital. The bill thus denies to women what is readily available to men, and is therefore clearly unconstitutional."

The resolution concludes: "Wisconsin NOW urges you (Lucey) to veto S.B. 338, and to propose alternative legislation which would distinguish between the rights of the individual medical personnel and the responsibilities of health care institutions."

Women's equality helps men

BY JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Expecting a man to be superior "lays a heavy trip on him," and equality of the sexes will benefit men as much as women, believes Merle Shain, who has written a book "about men and hence about women and love and dreams."

"Expecting men to be superior is as unrealistic as expecting them to be rich," declares the author of "Some Men Are More Perfect Than Others."

"When a man insists a woman put her head on his shoulder, take her feet off the ground and hang on to him, he'll soon find she's a drag. The marriage of two people becomes the marriage of one and a half."

Miss Shain, who was once a social worker, refused to become the half in her own seven-year marriage and was divorced nearly 10 years ago.

"The good thing about divorce is you can get custody of yourself, but," she adds, "if you can get custody of yourself in marriage you're better off. A society that does not reconcile commitment with freedom makes neurotics out of us all."

The petite Canadian, who says she discovered the need to be a person in her own right "long before it was written about," recalls that she made the adjustment to housewife very badly after working to put her husband through law school while earning a degree herself.

"He saw wanting a life of my own as irresponsible; he felt humiliated that I needed it," she says. "People are living much longer and the traditional marriage is in trouble. So much less respect is paid to motherhood and wifehood now. Women suddenly wake up at 35 and find it's too late to be a doctor and it's too early to die, and they feel sold out."

Though she deplores the antimalle bias of some women today, Miss Shain does not think marriage per se is a crucial factor in love and has the "evil stigma of somebody being the possession of someone else." But she does not think affairs work very well.

"You can have a good life single — intellectually, socially — but emotionally it's hit and miss. You don't need to be married for status, for support or even for sex, because our morality code is changing. But there are reasons to have a man: to have someone to love, someone in your camp, someone to be soft with."

This softness, tenderness and caring are the elements of love, notes Miss Shain, whose dark hair, worn short and straight with bangs, frames an elfin face.

"Orgasms have very little to do with making love," she says. "Making love by numbers is training for the Olympics. Men who want women to respond with a petit mal seizure that can be picked up on the Richter scale are not making love, but asking for reassurance."

The qualities of the "more perfect" man include first of all, she says, a generosity of mind and spirit. These men don't expect a woman to give up a piece of her freedom for him and they allow her to grow, rather than be warped to fit his needs.

The ideal man, she elaborates, has a touch of the poet, a willingness to listen and a capacity for ecstasy. "And women can't resist men who play all the parts — being childlike without being childish, paternal without being patronizing, lover and loved.

"Vulnerability is crucial," she adds. "It's the most seductive thing there is. I have ended up caring more for the men who cared for me than for all those charmers and smoothies who affect an air of Cary Grant."

She lives in Toronto in an old Georgian house with an old dog and a new dog. Her 11-year-old son, who lived with her until two years ago, is now with his father.

And has she found that man who is more perfect than others?

"They're a lot easier to define than they are to find," she says with a laugh.

Annual holiday tea takes long look at homemaking

SHIOCTON — Wednesday's annual Holiday Tea sponsored by the Outagamie County Extension Homemakers at the Greenville Grange attracted about 400 people. Theme this year was "Take a Long Look at Homemaking."

Appleton Center II was in charge of arrangements with Mrs. Chester Schroeder and Mrs. Ewald Greve as co-chairmen. Center Circle Club was in charge of the bake sale; Willow Hill Club, candy sale; Holiday Club, afternoon refreshments, and No Idle Hours Club, refreshments after the evening program. The centers with displays were Appleton I, Appleton II, Dale, Nichols, Kaukauna, Seymour and Shiocton.

White elephant items contributed by homemakers throughout the county were auctioned off by Mrs. Ray Blake. Mrs. Alan Pontius, Neenah, presented a display and narration on corn shuckery dolls.

At the evening program, Nancy Loefer demonstrated "How to Make a Perky Poodle." Marcia's School of Dance, Appleton, was featured in several dance numbers.

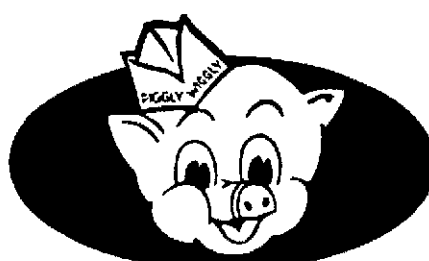

A style show by members of the executive board concluded the program. Narrator was Mrs. Norman Powers and Mrs. Eugene Books, pianist.

Not smarter, but notable

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the question raised by a reader regarding the coincidence that most of the world's great violinists were Jewish. He named several—Fritz Kreisler, Bischa Elman, Jascha Heifetz, Yehudi Menuhin, Isaac Stern, Nathan Milstein, etc. Milstein's explanation (that Jews, through centuries of persecution, gravitated to the violin because it was easier to pick up a violin and run with it than a piano) was amusing, but it raised another question, one which has far reaching significance in our present-day culture. Do you believe that Jews are smarter than Gentiles?—World Observer

Dear World Ob.: Smarter? No. But if you examine the list of achievers in the arts and sciences (Nobel prize winners, for example) you will find a surprisingly disproportionate number of Jews on every list.

Golda Meir, the Prime Minister of Israel, had this to say on the other side: "It took Moses 40 years to lead his people to the only place in the Middle East that doesn't have any oil." That's smart?

Dear Ann Landers: After reading the comments made by "Tactile Tillie," the woman whose husband wouldn't touch her outside the bedroom (not even a friendly pat), I wish I knew her phone number. I'd call her up and say, "You're lucky, honey. Your husband has respect for you."

The sex maniac I am married to had a vasectomy two years ago and has been hounding me ever since. He can't even pass me in the hall without trying to start something. It's disgusting.

I can't say "Thank you" when he does something nice because he always replies, "It will cost you something," or "It wasn't free." All this proves he has no regard for my feelings and that he doesn't respect me as a person. His "love" is sick, self-serving, self-centered, carnal and lustful. He's an insensitive, insatiable stud.

Tell Tillie to take pride in the fact that her husband loves her enough not to embarrass her in front of her children, friends, and neighbors by leering and grabbing and making suggestive remarks. Sex (I refuse to call it love) should be kept in the bedroom where it belongs. —Tired

Dear T.: There ain't no justice, lady. Although your point is well taken, there are thousands of women who don't care what you call it or what room it's in. They'd just love a little of what you have too much of. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: Our youngest child, a boy, was premature. He had to stay in the hospital incubator for three weeks.

That child did not speak one word until he was three years of age. I was deeply concerned that he might be retarded, although he understood everything. We had him tested and the results showed he was unusually bright.

Today the boy is 14 years old and he doesn't shut his mouth from the minute he gets up in the morning until he goes to sleep at night. It's almost as if he is making up for the time he lost. I am not writing for advice, Ann. I'm just writing to tell those mothers out there that if their kids are slow to talk, don't worry. Enjoy the silence.—Mamma

Dear Momma: Thanks for those words of advice. Some mothers do worry about the problem and your letter will help quiet their fears.

Opening lead — ♣ K

West opened the king of hearts, and South considered the hand as a whole before he made his first play from the dummy. This, incidentally, is a fine idea; it gives you the chance to look several tricks ahead and to make your deceptive plays without apparent thought.

In this case, South saw that he would have to lose a heart, a club and a trump. The trouble was that he might also lose a second trump trick.

Instead of trying to guess who had the jack of spades, South decided to give the opponents the chance to take the guess for him. He won the first trick with the ace of hearts and led the jack right back.

West won with the queen of hearts and assumed that South wanted to ruff hearts in the dummy. Why else would declarer lead dummy's jack of hearts at the second trick?

What do you do, as a defender, when declarer tries to ruff in dummy? You lead trumps to reduce dummy's ruffing power. And that's just what West did.

West led a low trump, dummy played low and East won with the ace. This was just what South wanted, of course. He could now draw trumps without further loss, and his game contract was safe.

This is a device worth remembering. If you make it seem that you are going to ruff losers in the dummy, the opponents will usually lead trumps for you.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one notrump, and the next player passes. You hold: S-K 3 H-A J D-8 7 4 2 C-K 10 9 4 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three notrump. Partner has 16 to 18 points, and the combined strength is therefore 27 to 29 points in high cards. This should be enough for game.

Pritzl-Perry

NECEDAH — St. Francis Catholic Church was the scene recently as Barbara Jean Pritzl and Michael Thomas Perry spoke wedding vows.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pritzl, former Appleton residents. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Dolores Perry, Los Angeles, Calif., and George Perry, Lake Orion, Mich.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Leonard Dorobek, was assisted by Mrs. Bruce Peeters and Mary Ann Zaleski, bridesmaids. Junior attendant was Michele Lamers.

Leonard Dorobek was best man. Other male attendants were Bruce Peeters, Dennis Mayer, Sidney Smith, Joseph Zaleski and Gilbert Saylor Jr.

The former Miss Pritzl has been employed at Triple P, Inc., Necedah. Her husband is with True Value Hardware Store, Necedah.

Audit shows questionable use of UW campus maintenance funds

Madison Bureau

MADISON — A random state audit of repair and maintenance programs at 12 University of Wisconsin campuses has uncovered questionable uses of some of the $12 million designated by the state legislature.

For example: —Funds earmarked for property maintenance are being used to pay the salary of a part-time maid at the living quarters of UW-Green Bay Chancellor Edward Weidner.

—Such funds are used in part to pay the salaries of a food service worker and a cook who work at the living quarters of UW-Milwaukee Chancellor Werner Baum.

—Funds sent to the UW-River Falls operating fund marked for property maintenance are helping pay the salary of a laundry worker in the school's physical education department.

The Legislative Audit Bureau made the study of the maintenance and repair programs but quickly emphasized that fund uses of this type are not illegal. In fact, the audit points out, there is no UW Central Administration guideline to tell chancellors not to do it.

"While this is within the prerogative of the chancellor," the audit stated, "we question if the legislature intended that property maintenance funds should be used to support such items, regardless of how justifiable the expenditures are."

The 1972-73 state budget allocated $12 million to the UW System to cover physical plant operating costs on the 12 campuses, Madison excluded.

Most of this money is directed fr custodial service with building maintenance, grounds maintenance, and supplies and other expense taking the rest. The amount of funds headed to each campus is determined solely by the amount of square feet of building space and core acreage.

Audit officials recommended that central administration set up a system-wide standard of maintenance so that funds could match the needs. The audit report characterized the current administration of maintenance programs as lacking "definition and control."

Each campus is responsible for the repair and maintenance of its own facilities and the funds for repair and maintenance are put into the general operating fund. The use of this designated money is controlled by the campus chancellor.

"Dollars allocated to each campus . . . are not intended to cover the costs of work done for self-supporting enterprises nor for work done beyond that required for preventive maintenance," the audit stated.

Yet, at UW-Green Bay, such funds were also used to pay for special interest projects as paper and glass recycling, day care center and greenhouse project (the latter costing $10,000) and a city-wide leaf mulching project.

A maid, who works two or three days a week at Weidner's state-owned living quarters, earns approximately $4,000 per year.

Work that goes beyond preventive maintenance, the audit authors said, should be charged to the campus departments that benefit from them and listed as special services. However, the audit added, charge-back methods are inconsistent.

The inventory control of maintenance materials and supplies were described as "either inadequate or non-existent." UW-Oshkosh was criticized for a "significant lack of effective communication and cooperation among management, staff, academic faculty and administrative personnel."

An overstocking of building materials exist because of the uncertainty of future work and frequent changes in assignment of priorities have resulted in inadequate estimates of future work loads, the audit reported.

"Various sections seem to be concentrating on their own activities and are not working for the benefit of the entire program," it continued. "Management expressed a concern about improving supervision and work scheduling but stated that requests for additional positions were not approved. We believe that what is needed is better utilization of present personnel and a well-defined delegation of duties and responsibilities."

An audit bureau official, when asked of his reaction to the UW-Oshkosh maintenance program, shook his head and said that "people are all going off in different directions. It's a mess."

Fuel pinch could restore value to farmer's woodlot

Post-Crescent Madison bureau

MADISON — Concern of the urban householder about the supply of oil and gas for home heating may restore to the farmer's woodlot the cash crop value it demonstrated in earlier generations of Wisconsin history.

That is the view of some forecasters and others who have observed an abrupt demand from urban residents for core wood, as well as the run on the old fashioned Franklin stove by persons contemplating the possibility of cold furnaces if the petroleum fuel pinch worsens.

On Madison suburban routes, enterprising young farmers from nearby rural communities are finding a heavy demand for seasoned wood for fuel at prices about $25 per ton. In Milwaukee, somewhat more distant from abundant woodlots, prices currently are higher, at $30 and more for mixed hardwoods that constitute the preferred fuel for the fireplace devotee.

Urban residents of rural or small town origins, remembering that fuel wood universally was sold by a cord measure, one may be curious about the current preference for the ton measure. One reason may be that wood species are of varying density and heating value. Another may be that the consumer may resist the prices asked when quoted by the traditional cord, since the cord for some wood species may weigh about two tons and bring the price to $50 to $60. Some dealers use dump trucks to deliver wood for fuel, making the cord measure inconvenient.

The most efficient woods for fuel, says Prof. Theodore Peterson of the University of Wisconsin extension forestry service, are the dense species, such as red oak, maple and hickory. Of substantially lower fuel value are paper birch, pine and aspen.

Peterson recalls that the farm woodlot was a measurable source of cash income for Wisconsin farmers until about a generation ago, and if the energy crisis in the nation continues to worry urban consumers, it may recover its former economic importance, he believes.

But he says also that many worried householders are unrealistic if they assume that the fireplace or the old Franklin stove can be an effective protection for the family. They will heat no more than a single room, he explains, and they are highly inefficient. If the country is confronted with a lengthy fuel supply problem, science must turn to devising more efficient ways of burning wood for heating purposes, which must involve means to use the volatile gases now largely wasted.

'Good old days' would be ruinous

James Reston, the world-respected columnist for the New York Times, writes intelligent, erudite, compassionate essays—but, as he has often wryly confessed to me, in the sphere of economics he's a bit of a dunce. Although I admire Scotty enormously and count him a friend, he demonstrated this to me in spades the other day when he wrote that what America "really needs is more shortages...of gas, beef and a lot of other things."

What Scotty is clearly yearning for is a simpler, safer, healthier life. "We need to cut down, slow up, stay home, run around the block, eat vegetable soup, call up old friends and read a book once in a while...Prosperity's what's been doing us in."

Yearning that millions share

It's Scotty's charming contribution to this era of nostalgia and it's a yearning that I and millions of you share.

But if his dream were to be realized, this is what it also would mean to you and me.

The worst economic slump since the catastrophic depression of the 1930s. Not mild recessions such as we have had in the post-World War II years, mind you, but a real crash.

Skyrocketing unemployment across the board—including skilled as well as unskilled workers, those of you in services as well as in the production of goods. The jobless rate easily could soar to double and more today's 4.5 per cent.

An upsurge in bankruptcies, particularly among smaller companies not sufficiently diversified in the right areas to offset restrictions on their activities and thus unable to cope.

An actual acceleration of the spiral in our cost of living to an even more intolerable rate in 1974 than in 1973, because demands from consumers would hit against dwindling supplies of goods and services—thereby exerting pressure on prices even though the overall economy would be faltering.

Steep interest rates and hard-to-get loans because the Federal Reserve System would try to curb consumer demands and prevent a runaway inflation by tightening credit.

Stocks would take dive

A stock market way, way down from today's levels, in reflection of declining corporation profits.

On top of it all, a worldwide slump, affecting the industrialized countries of Europe and Japan too, for these countries would feel the pinch of severe energy shortages even more than the U S. This would represent a calamity I don't even want to contemplate in print.

By no means am I forecasting this!

I am, though, emphasizing that these are some of the implications of a major decline in production and consumption in the U.S. brought about by energy shortages. What's more, some of the most thoughtful students of economics I know are privately discussing, for the first time, a slump around the world.

There are few hard facts to back up precisely what energy cutbacks might mean.

One rough rule of thumb under normal conditions—which certainly don't apply today—is that industrial production moves 1 per cent for every 2 per cent change in energy consumption. On the basis of a 16 per cent loss in oil this winter leading to an 8 per cent reduction in overall energy availability, industrial output could fall as much as 4 per cent in the next three months.

On the other hand, a Treasury Dept official, Edgar R. Fiedler, contends that even a 17 per cent reduction in our oil supply "will not really do any serious damage" to our economy next year.

No one knows answer

Perhaps the most accurate comment was made by Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, who asked what energy cutbacks would mean, said, "I'm ashamed to say I can't answer the question. We're studying the effects. It's awfully difficult."

You might insist that the U S should be able to shift workers to fields crying out for them—such as urban renewal. But you must also be realistic. We are, as of today, a consumer-oriented economy. Our ability to absorb the millions of new workers entering our labor force each year rests on our ever-rising consumption. We could change and would—but the transition would be excruciating.

You also might insist that the U.S. government should be an employer of last resort—and I agree. But we have not yet developed policies to achieve this, and until we do, our jobless would bear the burden of that "simpler" life. As a "depression baby," of the '30s, I find nothing exhilarating in contemplation of a consumer-less society that carries within itself a repetition for you of the privations of my childhood.

Bill would lift ad ban on professions

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A bill that would permit dentists, opticians, veterinarians and watchmakers to advertise was introduced Monday by Rep. David Berger, D-Milwaukee.

Berger said such advertising would make the professions more competitive and therefore lower prices.

Dentists and watchmakers would be permitted to advertise prices only while opticians and veterinarians could list prices and services, Berger said in a statement.

Existing prohibitions, he said, "unnecessarily keep prices high and . . . unfairly restrict the activities of certain professionals."

The bill would also permit a pharmacist to manage two pharmacies instead of just one and bar the Pharmacy Examining Board from discouraging drug departments in large chain stores or requiring the drug section to be a minimum percentage of floor space.

Judges' business interests questioned

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — State Rep. Harout Sanasarian, D-Milwaukee, has asked the state Judicial Commission to determine the number of Wisconsin judges who hold offices in business affecting the public interest.

Sanasarian said implementation of a rule in the 1967 Code of Judicial Ethics was postponed until 1970 to give judges time to divest themselves of offices in public utilities, banks, insurance companies and other business affecting the public interest.

But, Sanasarian said in a letter to James Rector, the commission chairman, and George Alderson, its executive secretary, the rule is not being applied uniformly.

Sanasarian questioned insertion of a "grandfather clause" which allows judges to retain such position if they held them prior to assuming office Jan. 1, 1968.

"I do not believe that the date on which a judge assumes his judicial office should determine the standard of ethics to which he will be held," Sanasarian said.

Courts

One year's supervision was ordered Friday for a 14-year-old Appleton girl who pleaded guilty to illegal possession of more than 500 prescription pills.

Outagamie County Judge R. Thomas Cane of the Juvenile Court also assigned the girl to a volunteer in probation after finding her delinquent.

The girl stole drugs that had been mailed to a heart patient from a veterans hospital. The man used to live at her address. Appleton police said she sold and gave away some of the pills and used some herself.

Police found most of the pills in a garage at the girl's home June 13

Charlie has wheels

Charlie Bessett got his new velocipede back Tuesday night, two days after it was stolen from alongside Oneida Heights where he lives.

The Post-Crescent carried a story Tuesday detailing the plight of the 85-year-old widower who saved from his Social Security checks for a year to buy a $173 velocipede, only to have it stolen three days after it was delivered. The thief cut a heavy chain that secured the vehicle to a rack.

Early Tuesday evening, a 13-year-old Appleton boy notified police that he had seen a velocipede matching that described as Bessett's abandoned behind a store near Oneida Heights.

Patrolman William Steward investigated. It was his grandfather's three-wheeler.

The bike appeared to be undamaged, but Bessett said he would have it inspected today. The security chain was missing.

Bessett, who said he was so excited he forgot to ask the name of the boy who found the bike he never expected to see again, will take the vehicle to his son's garage for the winter. He kept it inside at Oneida Heights Tuesday night.

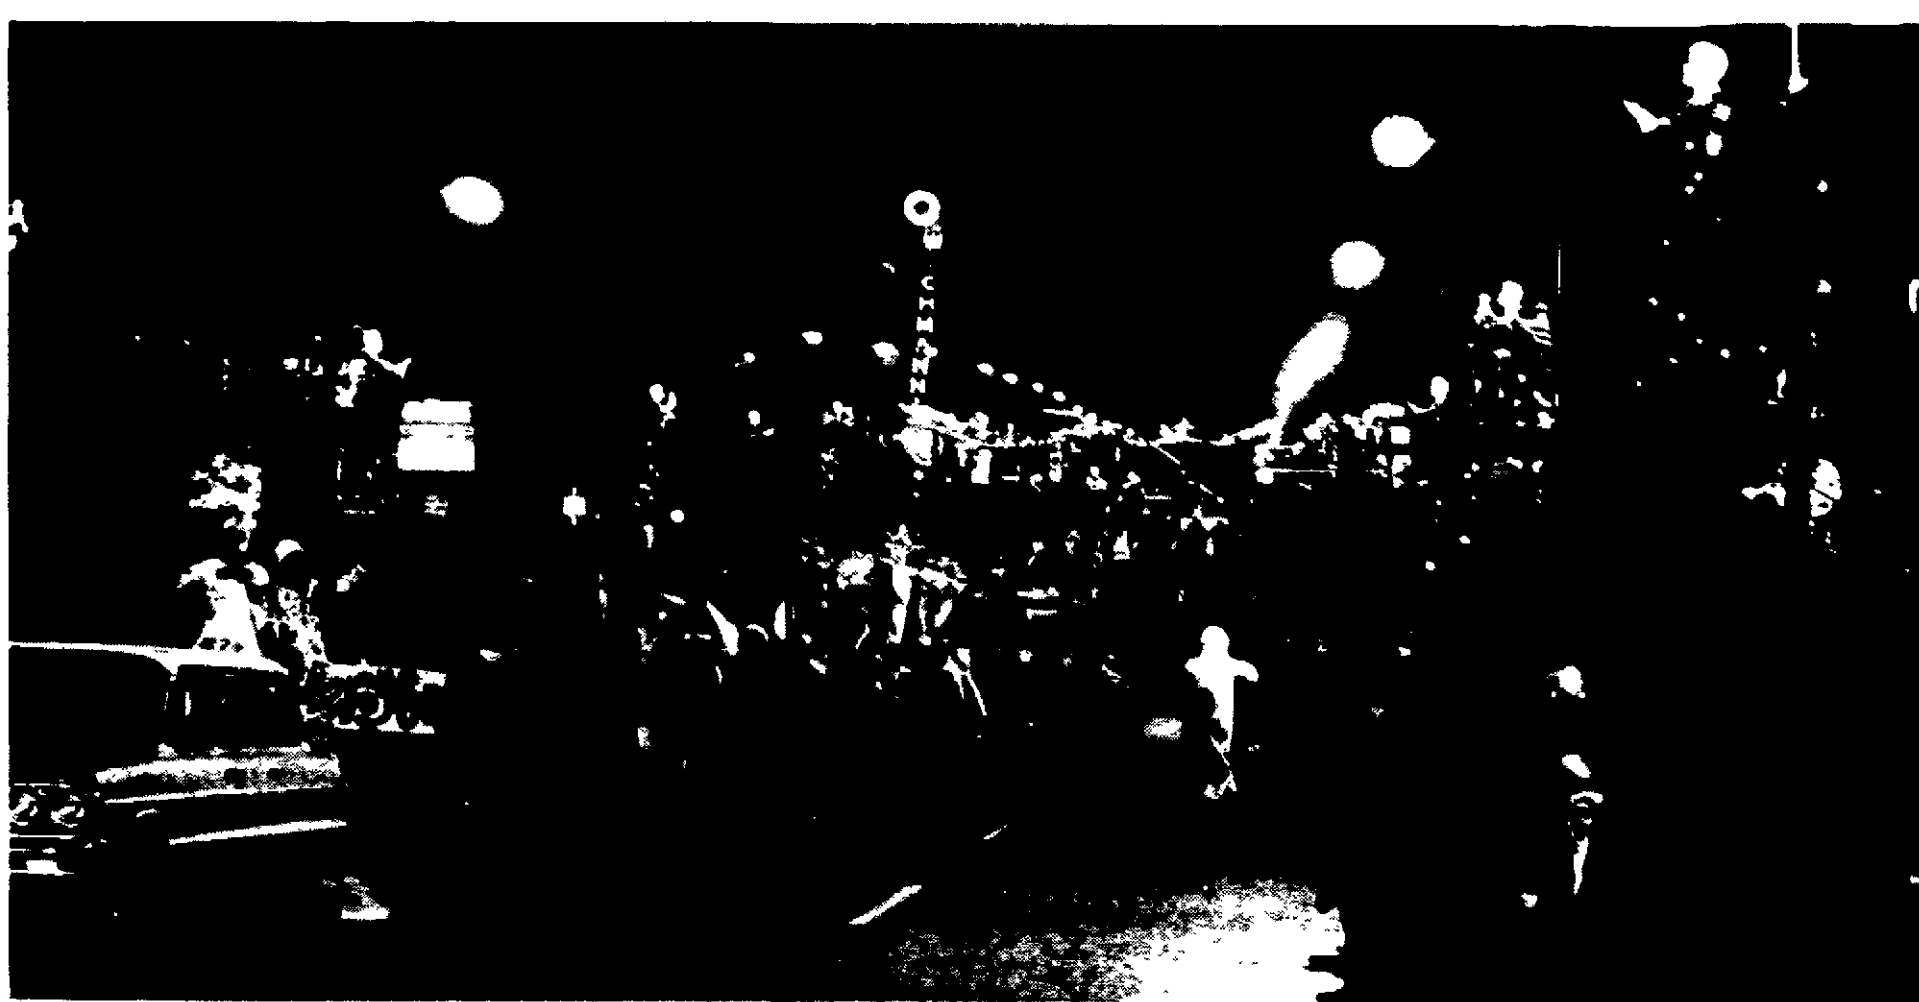

Bessett said someone from a school had called him to tell about a fund drive that had already netted $25 toward a new bicycle. "That was pretty darn nice," he said, but he told the caller to return the money. He had his bike back by then.

A Menasha man had planned to contact the velocipede's manufacturer today in an attempt to get the stolen bike replaced.

Among the many other calls Charlie received was one from a Green Bay resident wanting to help.

Kaukauna OKs 1974 budget, $26.95 tax rate

KAUKAUNA — The city council Tuesday night adopted a 1974 budget calling for appropriations of $5,109,184 with $3,517,062 to be raised through tax levy by a net tax rate of $26.95 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

The 1973 budget called for appropriations of $5,050,197 of which $3,505,416 was raised through tax levy by a net tax rate of $27.65 per $1,000 assessed value. The tax levy, without state tax credit, dropped six cents from last year, but an increase of 64 cents per $1,000 in state tax credit helped make the net rate 70 cents lower than last year.

The budget is the same as the original proposed budget. Aldermen meeting in special session to discuss the budget Monday night made very minor revisions which necessitated changes in figures in various categories, but not in the final total figures.

Major change was increase in engineering costs of about $825 which necessitated lowering the contingency fund by that amount. State and county taxes were also slightly lower than originally anticipated. This savings was added to the contingency fund which aldermen felt was still too low, but intended to make any changes.

Aldermen also debated a city promotional fund and the amount to be allocated to various organizations such as the Electro-Lights Drum and Bugle Corps, Kaukauna Athletic Club and Jaycees. Debate came after Mayor Robert La Plante complained that too often clubs and organizations undertake activities and when interest wanes, turn to the city for complete subsidization.

Aldermen agreed to leave $1,500 for city promotion, but decided to withhold action on how the money would be allocated. They also talked of possible limitations to agencies seeking city assistance.

City government costs for 1974 were set at $418,127, an increase of $58,955. Of the increase, $40,000 represents increases in employee health and pension costs, $11,250 is expenses anticipated in the move to a new city hall building, $3,500 additional election expenses is anticipated and a five per cent increase in salaries is included.

Protection of persons and property was increased $52,338 to $596,153 with police and fire salaries expected to be about $36,000 higher. Outlays for water mains to the new industrial park are expected to be about $11,000 more than was spent on new mains in 1973.

Health and sanitation costs were increased $22,851 in the 1974 budget to $234,754. This includes a $17,100 increase in garbage disposal costs, including labor, and $5,000 additional for chemicals needed for phosphate removal at the sewage plant.

Park expenses increased less than $1,200 to $58,860, representing increases in operational costs and outlays Recreation activity costs for 1974 were set at $90,792, or about $1,185 lower than in 1973. This decrease was possible as the 1973 budget included a $4,500 appropriation for purchase of contents at the former Outagamie County Teacher College building.

Highway and bridge expenses for 1974 were set at $418,100 or $91,342 higher than 1973. This includes an increase of $50,000 in the concrete road program, a $29,000 increase in new street equipment purchases, an added $9,000 in street oiling, seal coating and asphalt surfacings expense and $5,000 more in machinery maintenance.

The budget for other contingencies in 1974 was set at $81,928 compared to $54,009 in 1973. About $25,000 of the total increase represented a renovation cost for new city offices in 1974 whereas no such item was included in 1973.

State and county taxes show a drop of $54,495 in 1974 to $544,973. The road work fund was reduced $4,550 to $107,700. Also reduced was the sewer fund by $4,930 to $133,000. Bonded indebtedness payments increased sharply $184,901 to $672,123 in 1974.

The poor fund in the new budget was set at $16,204, down about $2,300. Police and fire pension funds dropped about $2,300 to $9,500. Payments to Fox Valley Technical Institute dropped about $4,583 to $112,583 and the library budget was increased from $90,009 to $94,400.

Playing a key factor in helping to reduce the tax levy was the appropriation for school purposes which dropped from $1,830,702 in 1973 to an anticipated $1,519,983 in 1974. In receipts other than tax levy, the city anticipates about $95,000 more in state aid for the sewage plant, an added $17,000 in federal revenue sharing and about $90,000 more in interest earned on investments.

Receipts other than tax levy in 1974 were set at $1,593,621 compared to $1,540,938 in 1973. Loss of receipts under the emergency employment act, on park improvement work and miscellaneous other areas help offset the increases in other areas.

Chamber plans antishoplifting programs

KAUKAUNA — The Heart of the Valley Chamber of Commerce again will sponsor an antishoplifting program for interested schools and organizations.

"Last year's effort was so successful that we received many requests to repeat it this year," said Mrs. Robert Evers. The program is offered in cooperation with municipal police and county police.

The drive to combat shoplifting last year included a special session at Fox Valley Technical Institute in which clerks and store employees received tips on how to detect shoplifters and also learned proper procedure for handling and apprehending offenders.

The committee this year is working with student councils in area high schools to find a new approach to the problem.

Library proposal near

By DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent staff writer

A special Outagamie County library study committee came close to making a formal recommendation Tuesday night for improved library service in the county, but then decided to hold off until a meeting when the full committee would be present. Three of the eight members were absent.

Four of the five present Tuesday indicated they were prepared to recommend a county federated library system, as opposed to a county consolidated system.

Under a federated system each community retains ownership and control over its library with the county providing services. Under a consolidated system the county would own all of the libraries.

Genevieve Beno, Kaukauna, was the lone member to challenge federation, saying she wanted to look at the two systems more before making up her mind.

She noted that Brown County has a consolidated system and that it is working well. She suggested that the Brown County librarian and the librarian from Manitowoc County, which has a federated system, be asked to meet with the committee.

Gordon Bebeau, Appleton librarian and vice chairman of the committee, said the biggest point in favor of the federated system was that it did not take away local control.

A previous study committee had made a recommendation for a consolidated system two years ago, but it was rejected overwhelmingly by the county board.

Bebeau and Jo Ann Fleming, Kimberly librarian, also reported on Manitowoc County's "Public Library in Your Mailbox" program to reach the rural residents who do not have library service.

Under the program started in 1971, Bebeau said that a catalogue is mailed twice a year to about 10,000 rural route residents and shut-ins in the cities describing new titles that residents can order by mail. The library pays the postage for both sending the books to the borrower and the return postage.

"They have achieved just about 100 per cent coverage in the county with this system," Bebeau said. He suggested that Outagamie County should move toward a similar service or toward bookmobiles. The population without library service in Outagamie County is about the same as that in Manitowoc County, he added.

The mail library has about 3,800 titles, all paperbacks. Bebeau said. In 1971 the circulation was about 35,000 and in 1972 it was about 50,000.

Fleming said the current budget for the mail program is about $26,000, including salaries, book acquisition and postage. Bebeau said this was about one-third the cost of putting a bookmobile on the road.

He estimated that it would cost between $22,100 and $33,000 to start a mail library service in Outagamie County, exclusive of the physical facilities. About one-fourth of the cost would be for the initial purchase of paperback books.

Tentative Little Chute 1974 budget approved

LITTLE CHUTE — The village board has approved a tentative 1974 budget calling for expenditures of $952,444 of which $692,926 is to be raised through tax levy compared to a 1973 budget of $919,218 with a tax levy of $626,105.

The gross tax rate is expected to be about the same as 1973, but increased state tax credit should result in a slightly lower tax per $1,000 of assessed valuation. With the village assessed at 35 per cent of true value last year the tax rate was $88 per $1,000 for residents of school district No. 1 and $82.56 per $1,000 for residents of school district No. 2.

A reassessment was carried out this summer, placing a 100 per cent value on property. The new tax rate anticipated is $26.25 for District 1 residents and $23.26 for those in District 2. State tax credit for 1974 is expected to be $3.67 per $1,000. Respective net tax rates will be $22.58 and $19.59 per $1,000 assessed valuation. State tax credit last year was $2.60 per $1,000.

A public hearing on the proposed budget has been set for 8:30 p.m. Tuesday. A summary of the budget shows school district No. 1 costs dropped from $444,450 to $415,721 while those in District 2 increased from $78,167 to $90,275. County tax dropped slightly from $153,974 to $152,799 while state tax increased from $6,085 in 1973 to $6,839 for 1974. Vocational school payments increased from $29,921 to $32,089.

The proposed budget shows a general government cost for 1974 of $80,105 compared to $72,315 in 1973, protection of persons and property was increased from $117,300 to $124,414 and health and sanitation costs held at $13,250 both years.

Relief and welfare costs were held at $5,000 while highway and bridge expense was raised from $129,150 to $138,040. The recreation budget was raised from $60,987 to $64,086 and indebtedness payments increased from $67,057 to $95,122.

Insurance costs in 1974 were listed at $70,000 compared to $52,900 this year, outlays were raised from $69,800 to $74,550 and unclassified expenses dropped from $29,539 to $22,980. Remaining steady were education costs of $800 and mobile home tax paid to schools at $6,000. Payment of special utilities tax to school declined from $2,006 to $581.

Total village expense was listed at $692,926, compared to $626,105 last year. Tax levy for village purposes alone was set at $254,718 in 1974, compared to $207,618 in 1973. The increase is within the guidelines established under the state budget bill.

Receipts other than tax levy listed in the proposed budget include $308,108 in state aids compared to $272,887 in 1973, commercial revenues up from $39,600 to $59,000 and federal revenue sharing down from $100,000 to $65,900. Decrease in the latter is the result of some federal funds anticipated in 1972 arriving in 1973.

Roland Kampo hospitalized following pains

TOWN OF MENASHA — Former Town Chairman Roland Kampo is listed in fair to serious condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital coronary care unit.

He was taken to the hospital early Tuesday morning after complaining of chest pains.

Kampo, 53, has been serving as the town's legislative lobbyist after being defeated in his bid for re-election in April. He also serves as one of the town's representatives on the Winnebago County Board.

Two connections with the town water system are called for in the area of College and Linwood avenues and Lilas Drive and Second Street. Both will be with 12-inch mains.

The connections will cost the city a total of $17,000, including about $8,000 for two meters to measure the flow of water that the city utility will be selling wholesale to the town sanitary district.

The city utility will recoup that cost, however, with the surcharge payments. The contract cannot be broken before five years, or the sanitary district must pay the $17,000 initial cost. After that, the town can drop off the city system at any time.

The contract signing, which is the final step necessary to approve the historic link between the city and town, represents a compromise on two major points.

First, the town came up from its initial demand for only a 22 per cent surcharge. The 25 per cent surcharge, on the other hand, represents a drop from what the water commission consultants originally recommended (40 per cent).

The town also backed off from its initial request for connection points that would have cost the city utility about $46,000 to implement. The final connection points agreed on will cost the utility about $9,000 to implement.

The contract also specifies that the utility will furnish water to the town at pressures required by state administrative code standards, or 35 pounds per square inch. The town, in turn, plans to add pumping stations and a tower to build its pressure up to a level necessary to meet district needs.

Negotiating for the city water district in the sessions that have led to the contract that was signed by the commission Tuesday and the town board last week were commissioners R. D. DeLand (chairman) and Ray Feuers-tein and Plant Mgr. Daniel Baer.

Nov. 6 crash injuries fatal to woman, 41

A rural Hortonville mother of seven died this morning of injuries she suffered in a Nov. 6 traffic accident at State 76 and Outagamie County Trunk JJ near Hortonville.

Mrs. Walter Stoeger, 41, route 1, Hortonville, died of massive pulmonary embolism, according to Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps.

Her death raises the county traffic death toll for the year to 41, 10 more than the previous record high. The toll was 20 on this date a year ago.

County police said Mrs. Stoeger was alone in her car which was northbound on State 76 when it was struck broadside by a car driven by David C. Weiland, 21, 218 W. Bath St., Hortonville, who was eastbound on County Trunk JJ. Police said Weiland did not stop for a stop sign.

The accident occurred at 1:05 p.m. Police reports indicated that Mrs. Stoeger had pelvis, head, hip, neck and arm injuries. Weiland had minor injuries. Both were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Mrs. Stoeger, a Sturgeon Bay native, lived in the Hortonville area about 10 years. She is survived by her husband, a daughter and six sons.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Mary Catholic Church, Greenville. Burial will be in the parish cemetery. Visitation will be at the Borchardt-Moder Funeral Home, Hortonville, after 2 p.m. Friday until time of services.

Year-round FVTI plan OK'd

By DAVE WEITZ
Post-Crescent staff writer

A model for a year-round school operation was formally approved by the Fox Valley Technical Institute District 12 board Tuesday in a resolution calling on school departments to determine the feasibility of converting programs to year-round operation.

The board has examined year-round operation in the past and the model was originally presented on Oct. 30 at a board workshop.

The action, approving the enabling resolution, will permit school committees to make plans for eventual switch of school operations to a year-round basis, said William Sirek, director.

Board member G. K. Unbehaun noted that any conversion to year-round operation still would require 5-board approval and negotiations with employees.

The resolution directs all school departments to conduct an annual study to determine feasibility of converting programs to year-round operation. "Further," it said, "the board solicits formal implementation proposals from departments on programs which are found, during the preliminary survey, to be feasible for operation."

Board members also approved payments on three construction projects, raised the pay of clerical teacher aides, and authorized purchase of $6,100 in equipment.

The clerical teacher aide salaries were raised from $369 to $397 after Sirek told board members that the $369 base pay was less than the $397 base established for receptionist and typists.

Because of the inequity in pay the school had experienced a rapid turnover in employees as clerical teacher aides, said Sirek.

Construction payments approved were: P. G. Miron, $3,721; Schutte Mochon, architects, $2,491. Hietpas Inc., $7,627; Lauer Brothers Inc., $79,302; Pieper Electric Inc., $5,760; M & S Electric, $1,267; Oudenhoven Co., $5,076; Towne Inc., $3,157; and Hietpas Inc., $4,002.

Equipment purchases approved were for:

A fuel control system testing set, $1,285; powertrain five-ton one end lift to lift trucks and trailers, $695; a Souix valve refacer set for a diesel mechanics course, $698 and an IBM typesetting keyboard at $3,456.

The board also approved sale of a surplus lathe at $100.

Installation of a 10,000 gallon fuel tank at a new facility under construction also was approved. Dominic Bordini, deputy director, told the members that the new building will be equipped with heating equipment which can be fired either with gas supplies or fuel oil.

Courts

Sentencing has been set for Friday in the case of Jeffrey A. Huntoon, 18, 3415 N. Bluemound Drive, who was found guilty Tuesday of an amended charge of fornication.

The charge stemmed from an alleged incident involving Huntoon and a 16-year-old Neenah girl near a Town of Greenville quarry the afternoon of Oct. 17.

Huntoon pleaded guilty to the charge, amended from: sexual intercourse with a minor, when he appeared before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

A Feb. 27 trial was scheduled Tuesday after Kent A. Kamp, 18, 905 N. Summit St., pleaded not guilty to a charge of marijuana possession.

The charge stemmed from a Sept. 16 arrest near City Park, and the plea was entered before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Michael J. Kaufman, 20, 1501 W. Packard St., was charged with carrying a concealed weapon and making annoying phone calls, relating to a Monday night incident at a west side tavern.

Police said he was drinking at the tavern and got into a quarrel with other patrons. The quarrel escalated into a struggle, during which a loaded gun reportedly fell from Kaufman's clothing onto the floor.

When a bartender refused to give him the weapon, Kaufman ran from the scene, police said, and later called the tavern, threatening to blow up the place if the weapon was not delivered to his residence. He was arrested a short time later at his home.

Kaufman appeared Tuesday before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, where bail was set at $2,200 and the case continued to this afternoon.

James Verbeten, 40, Dutch Harbor Estates, Little Chute, was charged Tuesday with disorderly conduct, relating to an Oct. 31 incident at the mobile home park.

Verbeten is accused of creating a disturbance at the residence of Alice Tapp. He appeared on the charge before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, where Schaefer continued the case to Jan. 21 to allow the defendant an opportunity to take part in an alcoholism counseling program.

A Dec. 10 pretrial conference was scheduled Tuesday in the case of Walter Voight, 518 N. Story St., who was charged with failing to pay wages to an employee.

Voight, 38, was accused of failing to pay $173.50 in wages covering a period from Sept. 18 to Oct. 16 to Roy E. Delano Jr., who worked as a tree trimmer for Voight. Delano said all the work was done in Appleton.

A 20-year-old Burlington man was charged Tuesday with theft and marijuana possession, relating to a late Nov. 9 incident at the parking lot of the Left Guard Charcoal House, Town of Grand Chute.

Another man reportedly spotted the defendant removing a package from a car and throwing the package, which contained two articles of clothing, into his pickup truck. Police said they found the marijuana in the possession of the defendant, Richard Wade, during a routine search at the county jail.

The case was continued to Monday by Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Arthur E. Johnson, 65, route 1, Oneida, was fined $100 after he was found guilty Tuesday of driving his car the wrong way on a divided highway.

Johnson was arrested on U.S. 41, northeast of Kaukauna the afternoon of Sept. 2. He pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Fuchs Inc., of Sauk City, forfeited $308 Tuesday to cover the fine for a trucking overload violation on Oct. 31 at the Wrightstown Scale on U.S. 41. The forfeiture was approved by Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Roy W. Barkholtz, 25, 1906 S. Lawe St., was charged Tuesday with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, relating to a Nov. 11 incident.

Barkholtz is accused of providing beer to a 17-year-old girl at a downtown Appleton tavern. His initial court appearance was before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, but the defendant later filed a writ of substitution, so the case will be heard by a different judge.

Barkholtz also faces traffic charges for improper use of license plates and failure to transfer a title.

Contract signed

An agreement for Appleton to provide wholesale water to the recently formed Grand Chute Water District, was culminated today with the signing of the contract. Present were, seated, Ira Livingston, Grand Chute town chairman, left, and R. D.

Fox Cities savers get $2.27 million

More than 13,000 Fox Cities residents have received checks in the mail totaling $2.27 million—an average of nearly $174—as Christmas Club accounts are returned to members for holiday purchasing.

Financial institutions report that the number of accounts is down slightly, but the average amount of each Christmas Club account is up from last year. The checks returned to account holders includes interest earned on their deposits.

There are 15 banks and two savings and loan institutions which offer Christmas Club accounts.

The five banks and one savings & loan in Neenah-Menasha reported 6,885 members with $1,239,187 paid out. This is an average of $179.60.

The six Appleton banks and one savings & loan reported 4,310 members with $735,581 paid out for an average account of $170.50.

The four banks in Kaukauna and the villages reported a total of 1,918 members with $303,042 paid out, for an average of $158.

Christmas Club, a Corporation, was organized in 1910 and there are now more than 10,000 banks and savings institutions across the country which participate.

Police & fire beat

Considerable damage resulted to the engine compartment of a 1965 car which caught fire at State and Franklin streets about 2:15 a.m. today. Appleton firemen said the car was owned by Kay Schuelke, 613 1/2 W. Franklin St.

The Appleton Fire Department was called to the Robert Wirth home, 946 Weiland Ave., at 3:45 a.m. today when a sump pump motor burned out.

Appleton police are investigating the theft of two speakers and an amplifier from the band room at Roosevelt Junior High School after 4 p.m. Monday.

Mike Fendt, Watertown, told Appleton police early today that his $150 leather coat was stolen from The Pendulum, 742 W. College Ave.

Gregg F. Gossens, 17, route 4, Appleton, suffered a broken leg when his motorcycle struck a parked car in the 1900 block of E. Glendale Avenue about 9:15 p.m. Monday.

Police said Gossens was driving east on Glendale but didn't see the car, as his face mask was foggy. The car is owned by Arthur L. Schuh Jr., 1909 E. Glendale Ave.

City seeks oil to heat old vocational building

If Fox Valley Technical Institute and the City of Appleton can agree, they may be able to find enough oil to heat the old vocational school building which now is owned by the city.

The problem is that the city obtained the school after fuel oil allocations were established and now is searching for heating oil. It is complicated because only an annex to the building is used, and the heating system links both an older structure and the annex.

Fox Valley Technical Institute has 13,000 gallons of fuel oil for storage or possible use to heat the structure, according to Dominic Bordini, deputy director.

He said today the Institute may formally propose that the city utilize the fuel to heat the structure. Later the Institute may seek a trade on the value of the fuel for the $285 monthly rent the school pays for use of space at the annex.

Robert Miller, director of public works, wants to use the oil. "We will attempt to utilize their (the Institute) allocation if we have to in order to secure oil."

So far, however, the city plans on simply paying the district for the oil purchased on a reimbursement basis. Francis Yingling, administrative assistant in the department of public works, has discussed a rent-oil trade with Bordini but no formal proposals have been issued.

He said today that the city is going to request diversion of a tankerload of fuel oil from the Institute to the old vocational school building on the basis that the city will pay for it.

The city also purchases fuel oil for fire departments and for some welfare department use.

The amount of fuel needed to heat the building has not been established. Miller said that the city is studying the use of direct-fired space heaters in the annex.

Last year the building cost an estimated $5,000 to heat, according to the city finance department.

"We had to give something," said DeLand.

The City Council must still give final approval to a resolution authorizing the commission to sign the contract before the action becomes final, but unanimous preliminary okay of that authorization Nov. 7 almost assures that.

In other action Tuesday, the DeLand ordered water system superintendents to investigate methods for saving gasoline and electricity after reviewing a letter from Mayor James Sutherland requesting the department to conserve energy where it could.

Giordana, Taylor, Bouressa are 'All-State'

By MIKE O'Brian
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Three of the main reasons Fond du Lac has produced some of Wisconsin's finest high school football teams the last few years can be found in the Johnson household—Coach Jim and strapping sons Pete and Phil.

A season's opening one touchdown defeat by Manitowoc this fall cost Fond du Lac a shot at the state's No. 1 ranking, an honor won a second consecutive year by Antigo, but there was no stopping Pete. For that matter, Phil wasn't far behind.

Pete Johnson, the Cardinals' superb linebacker, has climaxed his prep career by being named to the Associated Press' all-Wisconsin football team a third successive year. No other Wisconsin player has been similarly honored in the history of the AP team, highly selective in that it recognizes only 74 athletes from among well over 400 schools.

Battered Fox River Valley Conference football foes finally have rid themselves of Pete—although he will be around all winter to lend his considerable talents to Fond du Lac's basketball team, runnerup in the state public school tournament last March.

Phil Johnson, however, has another football season to play, and all he did as a junior was lead the Valley in rushing with 1,007 yards. That was good enough to earn him second team all-state honors.

The all-state team was chosen by a committee of six sportswriters representing AP member newspapers and assisted in screening and evaluation by fellow members throughout Wisconsin.

Pete Johnson is joined on the first unit by two teammates, defensive end Mark Lindsley and defensive lineman Tom Leu.

Other schools represented by more than one player are Kaukauna, showing center Frank Bouressa and quarterback Reed Giordana; South Milwaukee, which placed defensive back Kevin Kuchevar and offensive tackle Tom Sobocinski; and Madison East, which showed running back Paul Looper and offensive tackle Tom Kaltenberg.

Beloit Memorial defensive lineman George Bertone, a second team selection in 1972, moved up to first team.

Also on the No. 1 defensive unit are end Curt Mosher, La Crosse Logan; interior lineman Scott Taylor, Appleton West; linebackers Mark Biermann, Milwaukee Riverside, and Tom Maltbey, Wausau West, and defensive backs Scott Moreland, Maple, and Dan Van Gompel, West De Pere.

Others named first team offense were guards Jim Toigo, Sturgeon Bay, and Phil Parker, Westfield; ends Mark Bailey, Whitewater, and John Anderson, Waukesha, and running backs Dan Waters, Wisconsin Rapids Assumption, and Jeff Trimble, Lake Geneva Badger.

Toigo was recognized for his trench

Manawa upsets Chuters in final second, 38-37

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

LITTLE CHUTE—Dennis Thomack turned, fired a jump shot from above the free throw line and the ball swished through the hoop as the gun sounded giving Manawa a heart-throbbing 38-37 victory over favored Little Chute here Tuesday night.

Thomack's eighth basket of the game was another in a series of frustrating moments for the Mustangs who had gone into the Central Wisconsin Conference opener as a heavy favorite to come away with a victory.

Little Chute trailed throughout the first half, had the lead twice in the third period and on two occasions in the final stanza, the last time being 37-36 with 2:18 remaining in the contest.

Scott Schommer hit two free throws at the 2:18 mark to give the Mustangs the lead. The Wolves came down the floor and worked the ball for a shot which missed at the 46-second mark and Little Chute got the rebound.

The Mustangs held the ball until 14 seconds remained and then called a time out. When play was resumed, Schommer took the pass inbounded and dribbled into the corner where he was surrounded by two Manawa players and suddenly the ball popped out of bounds with nine seconds showing on the clock. The official ruled that Schommer had lost control of the ball and turned it over to the Wolves who called time out to set up the final play.

The clock was ticking off the last seconds when Thomack got the ball, turned at the top of the circle and lofted his game-winning shot in the air. The horn was sounding an end to the contest when the ball swished through and delirious Manawa fans rushed onto the floor.

Thomack was the individual standout of the game as he hit eight field goals out of the 13 that the Wolves had in the

Bucks drop 3rd straight

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Rick Barry, Cazzie Russell and Nate Thurmond have convincingly refuted the theory that Golden State's ouster of the Milwaukee Bucks in the playoffs last spring was something of an accident.

Beaten onesidedly by the Bucks in two regular season outings this fall, the Warriors opened a 10 point lead with less than 10 minutes left Tuesday night and held on to hand Milwaukee its third successive National Basketball Association defeat 108-105.

The defeat dropped the Bucks into a first place tie with Chicago in their division.

Barry and Russell led the Warriors with 31 and 28 points, respectively. Thurmond and rookie Derrek Dickey each grabbed 10 rebounds as Golden State posted a 51-41 board advantage, while Thurmond held Kareem Abdul-Jabbar to 20 points, 4.5 under his average.

The 6-foot-11 Thurmond personally took charge after the Bucks, behind three baskets by Jon McGlocklin and two by Abdul-Jabbar, had charged into a 103-103 tie with 3:17 remaining.

Barry connected from the left baseline and Thurmond sank one of two free throws moments later to put the Warriors ahead for good at 106-103 with two minutes left.

Oscar Robertson sank a short shot to pull Milwaukee back to within one point, and the Bucks got the ball back seconds later when Bob Fandridge rebounded a missed shot by Jeff Mullins.

However, Thurmond blocked a Robertson shot from the baseline with 35 seconds left and scored a clinching layup with 12 seconds to go on a deft pass from Mullins. Abdul-Jabbar left the lane area to pick up Mullins in the corner, but Mullins whipped a pass around the big Milwaukee center to Thurmond breaking for the basket.

Bucks Coach Larry Costello was appalled that the Warriors could dominate the boards without 6-foot-10 forward Clyde Lee. Lee, who destroyed Milwaukee in the playoffs, will be out until the first of the year with a knee injury, but the Bucks still managed only five rebounds in the fourth quarter.

"Five rebounds! Can you imagine that?" Costello said. "You must fall into five rebounds just by being out there. Sooner or later one will bounce to you."

"And I think we only had one basket off a fast break all night," he said. "We nearly did the impossible—win without rebounds or fast breaks."

"I thought Mickey Davis and Lucius Allen gave us some spark in the third quarter, but it wasn't enough," Costello said. "This game is 48 minutes long. You've got to have bodies flying out passer; Scott Taylor, Appleton West's stellar middle guard and Frank Bouressa, Kaukauna's junior center. Bill Newhouse, the Ghosts stellar end, was accorded honorable mention honors.

"It's just unbelievable," Appleton West's Paul Engen said, when informed of the honor paid Taylor, unanimous selection as the FVA's defensive player of the year.

Taylor, 6-2, 205, has battled back from a serious case of mono last spring. "By no means has he reached his potential," Engen said of the honor student-athlete who was a key to the Terrors defense.

"We felt Scott was a tremendous force for us. We felt secure with him in the middle. We didn't think any team could expect to block him one-on-one."

"Scott is very strong. He can press about 300 pounds but I don't feel he has anywhere attained his physical potential. He's one of the quickest people I have ever worked with in the defensive line. He has been timed in five-flat in the 40."

"I'm sure I hurt him and some of the others because I don't believe in blowing an individual's horn. This honor should help gain attention for his abilities."

"We felt the potential was there..it was a just a matter of doing it. I feel very good about the honor. I don't think anyone realizes how this could affect our football program," Engen said.

Two season's ago Kaukauna coach Ken Roloff had a double all-stater in lineman Dave Anderson. This was another first as Giordana, who directed the Ghosts' devastating aerial game, and Bouressa, who was an outstanding blocker, gained first team status. Bouressa's selection came as somewhat of a surprise because of his being a junior.

"Oh, beautiful.. That's just fantastic," Roloff exclaimed when learning of the honor paid his team.

"Intelligence is Reed's biggest asset," Roloff said.

"Reed has the ability to read a defense and can audible at the line. He has a tremendous knowledge of the game and all the physical ability you require in a quarterback."

"Besides, he operated under different offenses the last two years. In 1972, we used a wishbone and he had to

Xavier tips FVL

BY MIKE BATES
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

If the Appleton Xavier High School basketball team is going to wind up in ninth place in the Fox Valley Christian Conference, the spot designated to the Hawks in a pre-season poll by area sportswriters, they started off the wrong way Tuesday evening.

Pat Verbrick swished two free throws with five seconds remaining in the game to clinch a 61-59 FVCC season-opening win over Fox Valley Lutheran in the packed Foxes gym.

Fox Valley, which was picked for the FVCC's fourth position, was able to get the ball to mid-court and called time out with three seconds showing.

The following inbound pass was batted out of bounds by the Xavier defense, and two seconds were left.

A desperation shot by the Foxes' Tom Grow was off its mark when the final horn sounded, bringing frustration to the Foxes, who had battled back from a 29-19 halftime deficit.

The hosts outscored XHS 16-12 in period number 3 to move within 41-35 going into the final eight minutes.

A long-range basket by Tom Hanke, his fifth straight of the final quarter, cut the FVL deficit to 49-47 with 4:31 to play.

Grow's bucket at the 4:06 mark provided the Foxes with a 49-49 deadlock and it appeared the momentum had swung in favor of FVL.

But Xavier was not to be denied and Verbrick tipped in a missed free throw to push Xavier back on top, 51-49.

Rich Kewley connected on one attempt in a bonus situation, stretching the Xavier margin to 52-49.

John Schultz came back with a floor shot with 2:49 left to bring FVL within 52-51 but Kewley, on an assist from Verbrick, countered with a "two-point."

The teams then traded goals until Schultz canned a field shot with :30 left, tying the score at 59.

Kewley brought the ball downcourt and took a shot from the top of the lane but the ball spun around and around the rim before bouncing out. FVL rebounded and set up a possible game-winning attempt but Dick Boya hauled down the errant shot.

After a Xavier time out, the Hawks worked the ball to Verbrick, who was near the free throw circle, when Schultz was guilty of a foul, setting up Verbrick's winning free tosses.

Xavier coach Gus Laemmrich said afterwards "We could have won it by 20 points if we made free throws like we're capable of (Xavier made nine of 21 from the line). "We're good free throw shooters...it'll come."

"We can only play five at a time and to see the enthusiasm from the other eight...That's the team effort and unity we're after."

Laemmrich also stated that Xavier "can still end up in ninth place. We have to prove that we can play better than we did tonight (Tuesday)."

Verbrick's 11 baskets and three free throws was good for 25 points and scoring honors. Hanke led FVL in scoring with 24 points on 12 buckets.

Schultz finished with 20 points, of which 14 came in the second half. Bob Mullen added 13 points for Xavier.

Xavier was tagged with only 11 fouls the entire game and as a result, FVL was allowed a mere four free throw attempts, and only one in the second half.

Unofficially, FVL connected on 29 of 66 floor shots (44 per cent) while Xavier hit on 24 of 56 (41 per cent). The Foxes outrebounded the Hawks 28-24 but committed 20 turnovers to eight for Xavier.

Xavier is now 3-0 overall while FVL drops to 1-2 overall.

Patriots rally to top Green Bay Southwest

GREEN BAY — Rallying in the second half after trailing by eight points at halftime Appleton East fashioned a 54-50 non-conference victory over Green Bay Southwest here Tuesday night.

With their 6-foot-7 center, Paul Callaway held scoreless from the floor in the first two periods the Terrors gradually fell behind after an early 7-7 deadlock in the opening quadrant.

The Trojans, mainly on the strength of Tom Anderson jump shots, built a 30-22 halftime margin.

The third quarter saw the Terrors take command of the tempo of the game. With Callaway hitting 10 of his game total of 16 points, the visitors took the lead, 38-37, at the end of the third eight minute session.

Southwest swung the momentum again in its favor to tie the contest at 43-43 at the 2:40 mark of the final stanza. At this point Trojan guard, Mark Geyer, was assessed a technical foul for face guarding the Terror's 5-8 guard Craig Martin.

Martin connected on the free shot to put the Patriots ahead, 44-43. Ray Schreiter put the winners up by three moments later with his sixth two-pointer of the game. East maintained its three or four point margin to the buzzer to push its overall record to 1-1. Each team connected for 20 field goals with East winning the free throw battle 14-10.

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Rose, the Cincinnati Reds' irrepressible left fielder, was named the National League's Most Valuable Player for 1973 today by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Nicknamed "Charley Hustle" for his all-out, aggressive baseball style, the Reds' dynamic player won the MVP prize in a close battle with Pittsburgh Pirates slugger Willie Stargell.

Rose, who hit .338 this year in leading the National League in batting for the third time in his career, received 12 votes for first place and a total of 274 points.

Stargell, the league leader in home runs with 44 and runs batted in with 119, collected 10 first-place votes and 250 points.

It was the tightest MVP NL race since 1969, when Willie McCovey of the San Francisco Giants edged Tom Seaver of the New York Mets by 22 points.

Rose and Stargell were the only players named on all 24 ballots cast by the BBWAA committee, which consisted of two writers from each league city.

Two other players who each received one first-place vote finished third and fourth in the balloting — San Francisco outfielder Bobby Bonds and Cincinnati second baseman Joe Morgan. Bonds collected 174 points, and Morgan, one of four Reds in the top 10, collected 102 points.

Montreal relief ace Mike Marshall, who finished second to Seaver in this year's Cy Young Award voting, completed the top five with 93 points.

Others in the top 10 were Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals, with 65 points; Cincinnati's Tony Perez, 59; Seaver, 57; Ken Singleton of the Montreal Expos, 52, and Cincinnati's Johnny Bench, 41, last year's MVP.

For Rose, the glossy MVP award is the culmination of a long-time ambition.

"It's great to be No. 1," Rose said. "It's the biggest honor yet. I'm thrilled and happy."

Rob Reader hits 25 points to key Hortonville

OMRO — Rob Reader connected for 25 points, including 10 baskets, and Kerry Everts added 18 points as Hortonville posted an 83-51 triumph over Omro in an East Central Conference basketball opener here Tuesday night.

The Foxes, who trailed by only two points (19-17) at the end of the first period, were guilty of 25 turnovers during the game while the Polar Bears made only five.

Field goal percentages were almost equal as Omro connected on 23 of 52 for 44 per cent while Hortonville hit 33 of 77 for 43 per cent.

Hortonville held a 10-0 lead early in the game, but Omro battled back during the remainder of the first quarter. The winners took command in the second half, outscoring the Foxes 23-9.

Randy Schwartz was Hortonville's other double figure scorer with 14 markers.

For Omro, Mike Freund hit 18, Dan Lenz netted 14 and Dave Strey contributed 11.

Appleton men win badminton honors

Marty Wingrove and Jerry Koepsel, of the Appleton Badminton Club, won honors at the recent Wisconsin State Badminton Novice Tournament in Waukesha.

Wingrove beat Greendale's Bob Bozhardt, 15-9 and 15-10, in the men's singles finals. He then teamed with Koepsel to beat Bozhardt and Brookfield's Jim Klager, 15-12, 17-14, for the doubles title.

Brillion, Freedom win Olympian cage openers

Mark Ott's half-court shot at the final buzzer was successful as Brillion nipped Denmark, 54-52, in an Olympian Conference opener on the Lions' court Tuesday night.

Jim Van Camp, a 6-3 junior forward, collected 16 points to ignite Freedom to a 57-47 win over Reedsville.

In other inaugurals, Mishicot handled Wrightstown, 75-52, and Valders whipped Hilbert, 59-49.

Denmark led Brillion, 44-37, at the end of three before the Lions tied it up at 52-all near the end of the game. Ott, a 6-2 senior center, then delivered with his long-range bucket.

Freedom trailed Reedsville until Van Camp put it ahead, 42-41, with 2:00 left in the third period. The Irish employed a man-to-man defense to turn things around in the second half.

The victors made 22 field goals in 44 tries for a torrid 50 per cent average, while Reedsville hooped 21 in 59 attempts for 39 per cent.

Larry Daul scored 12 points for Freedom and grabbed 12 rebounds. Dan Wisneski hit 10 points and made 15 rebounds.

Bob Zima scored 21 points, Dale Aulik hit 14 and Dale Gorzlanecy contributed 13 to the well-balanced Mishicot attack.

Mishicot led, 16-13, after one quarter of play and remained in command during the remainder of the game.

Wrightstown was outscored, 48-31. Randy Verbeten was the only double figures scorer for the Tigers with 10 markers.

work in clearing holes for a fleet of Sturgeon Bay backs who amassed 1,824 yards rushing. Toigo excelled as a pulling and trapping guard in his team's Houston Veer style offense.

Parker, playing for a comparatively small school, was honored for much the same reasons. The second fastest man on the squad with 4.9 second speed at 40 yards, Parker was a superb pulling guard for a Westfield team which averaged more than 400 yards a game, mostly from the single wing.

Whitewater Coach James Crummeys called Bailey the best receiver he has seen in his 31 years as a coach.

Playing for a ground-oriented team, Bailey caught 26 passes for 713 yards and 10 touchdowns, with most of the scores on plays covering 30 to 50 yards. He made all-Southern Lakes and placed second in the conference in voting for most valuable player.

Anderson, a star tight end, linebacker and placekicker, caught 33 passes for 416 yards and seven touchdowns, was successful on 45 of 48 extra point attempts, converted four of seven field goal tries, including one of 47 yards, punted for a 45 yard average and amassed 111 points.

Waters won the Central Wisconsin Catholic Conference rushing and scoring titles a second consecutive year and propelled Wisconsin Rapids Assumption into the state independent schools' playoffs.

A brilliant outside runner with the kind of slashing power to run over people inside, Waters gained 1,140 yards in 293 carries and scored 11 touchdowns during the regular season. His conference totals were 169 carries for 8,910 yards, a 5.4 yard average, and 17 touchdowns.

Trimble, coming back from a knee injury which slowed him as a junior, ran 144 times for 1,283 yards, an 8.9 yard average, and 22 touchdowns. He never carried more than 17 times in a game, yet gained 100 or more yards in all but one. He exploded for 319 yards and five touchdowns in his final game.

Trimble gained another 228 yards with 11 pass receptions.

Looper, co-player of the year in the Big Eight, totaled 1,469 yards in 29 carries and 19 touchdowns. Exceptionally strong despite lack of imposing size, Looper is a great cutback runner with ability to break tackles. He rushed for more than 300 yards against Madison Edgewood.

NEW LONDON — A harassing zone defense shut off the devastating Berlin inside game as New London rallied to post a 45-43 victory in an East Central Conference thriller here Tuesday.

"We are 1-0 and in first place. That's all that matters," New London coach Adrian Martin said. The Bulldogs had suffered two non-conference defeats in tuning up for the tall Indians.

"Sometimes we defeat ourselves," Berlin's Dave Morley said. "We crash the boards so hard that we take it away from our own men. New London really scrapped and played a fine game."

Berlin commanded the boards, clearing 48 missed shots to a mere 24 for the much smaller Bulldogs. The New London zone helped force 23 turnovers, 10 more than the Bulldogs committed, and forced Berlin to take shots from longer range than they would like.

The Bulldog defense was consistent through the game but really took hold in the fourth stanza as Berlin managed just four points and saw a 39-35 lead slowly eroded while New London was struggling with its own offensive attack.

For a while it seemed like the Bulldogs attempt to hurry down court and get a shot off before Berlin could set up its own zone would prove costly.

However, about midway through the final segment, Dennis Peterson shook loose for a 20-foot jumper to pull New London within a basket of the Indians and then the next trip into the scoring zone the senior guard drove toward the charity lane, pulled up and swished a WEYAUWEGA — With Rick Hasselquist and Dave Bray combining for 43 points Wautoma tagged Weyauwega with its first loss of the campaign, 70-54, here Tuesday night.

Building a 34-24 margin at halftime the Hornets added seven points to the cushion in the third period to stow away the victory.

Hasselquist rimmed 11 goals and three free throws for 25 points while Bray netted 18 markers on nine goals.

Steve Oehlke was the top point producer for the Indians with 19 while Brian Buckolz and Shane Radtke added 12 and 11 respectively.

The Hornets connected on 29 of 51 shots for 57 per cent while the Indians were successful on 22 of 52 for 42 per cent in the non-conference contest.

Although the season has only reached the one-quarter point, predictions in the Western Conference in the National Basketball Association are pointing to a torrid winter out west.

"Anyone who says that the Los Angeles Lakers are a shoo-in, doesn't know what's going on in the NBA," said Chicago Coach Dick Motta after his Bulls outlasted the Trail Blazers Tuesday night 106-101.

"This was a big game because this is the start of a make or break road trip for us," said Jeff Mullins, whose feed to Nate Thurmond helped Golden State squeeze by Milwaukee 106-105.

"This is a reconstruction period for us," said Los Angeles Coach Bill Sharman after the Lakers were whipped by the Knicks 105-89.

In the rest of the NBA, Buffalo trounced Phoenix 127-100 and Philadelphia downed Kansas City-Omaha 109-103.

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana edged Utah 102-98 and Carolina tripped Denver 113-107.

Bulls 106, Trail Blazers 101
Portland held Chet Walker scoreless for nine minutes of the final period, but the veteran Chicago forward then poured in 10 points in the last three minutes, finishing the game with 30 points and leading Bulls to a 106-101 victory over the Trail Blazers.

Knicks 105, Lakers 89
Bill Bradley, Willis Reed and Walt Frazier combined for 25 points in the third period, leading New York on a 26-8 tear and the Knicks breezed to a 105-89 victory over the Lakers.

Wers 106, Kings 103
Larry Jones and Tom VanArsdale each chipped in 10 points during a third-period surge, lifting Philadelphia to a 109-103 victory over Kansas City-Omaha.

Braves 127, Suns 100
Bob McAdoo fired in 26 points and grabbed 18 rebounds while Ernie DiGregorio had 18 points, eight assists and ran his consecutive free throw streak to 34, helping Buffalo romp over Phoenix 127-100.

October 22, 1973

The second regular meeting in October of the Appleton Joint School District No. 10 Board of Education was held in the Board of Education Conference Room on Monday, October 22, 1973. The meeting was called to order by the President, Mabel McClanahan, at 7:15 p.m.

All Board members were present.

Mr. Schneider moved approval of the minutes of the October 8, 1973, Board of Education meeting as circulated. Second by Mrs. Patterson and carried unanimously.

Communications were read.

The Board of Education meeting was then moved into the Morgan Building auditorium for the hearing of delegations portion of the agenda in order to accommodate the large crowd in attendance.

Hearing of Delegations:

Mr. & Mrs. Michael J. Halkin, representing parents of Woodlawn School students, were present to request that a committee be appointed to work with the administration of the Woodlawn School, that an unusually hazardous situation does exist in that area. In the course of discussion in which various members of the audience and administration participated, the state statute concerning this issue was reviewed and clarified. After deliberation, Mrs. McClanahan suggested a committee be appointed to work with the administration, town officials, and the people who have entered this plea to explore the problem that exists. She further suggested that consideration be given to other areas within the Appleton School District where a hazardous condition might exist, and that a recommendation be brought to the Board for consideration. There was no objection. Mr. Becker agreed to serve as chairman.

As a result of several drug arrests which occurred at Appleton High School West on October 16, 1973, several high school students, parents, city officials, and interested members of the community were present to voice their views on the subject. Steven King, president of the student council at West, stated that there was much concern among West's student body relative to the image of West that was created in the Post-Crescent's coverage of the arrests. He, along with parents, and other students present, also expressed a concern over what effect the events of October 16 may have on open campus privileges. After a lengthy discussion involving administrators, Board members, and members of the audience, Mrs. McClanahan stated that she believed the open campus system may be studied this year but that it will certainly continue through the remainder of the 1973-74 school year. Returning to the subject of the drug arrests themselves, Mr. Boettcher presented a detailed outline of the events surrounding the arrests that occurred on October 16. After further deliberation, Mrs. McClanahan declared the hearing of delegations closed, and the meeting moved back to the Board of Education Conference Room.

Mrs. Patterson moved that the President of the Board of Education be directed to send a letter to Mayor Sutherland suggesting the appointment of a community problem with representation, in addition to anyone he might choose, from the administration, School Board, East and West Student Council, Appleton Police Department, County Narcotics Squad, Outagamie Sheriff Department (Juvenile Division), Common Council, and the Drug Council. Second by Mr. McKenzie. There were two votes and four no votes. Motion lost.

After a review of the Board policy on drugs by Mr. Boettcher, it was the consensus of the Board that Mr. Boettcher and Mrs. Patterson head up a review and possible revision of the drug policy with a report back to the Board.

Mr. McKenzie suggested that the administration be directed to study and report back to the Board before the year end with some type of a recommendation regarding the police liaison concept which would include some investigation of funding. There was no objection.

Mr. Boettcher reported for the Department of Operations as follows:

Mr. Becker moved approval of the following contract changes effective September 15, 1973:

run and option off the rollout. This year we used the pro-set because we had pretty good ends in Newhouse, Greg Helf and tight end Tom Landreman.

"His possibilities are limitless. It all depends on what he wants to do. If he wants to play two sports (basketball and football) he'll have to choose a medium school, if he wants to concentrate on one sport he can play at any major school.

"Bouessa is probably one of the finest boys I've had to work with since coaching. Frank didn't make one bad exchange all year. His size, 6-3, 205 pounds, is an asset.

"His initial moves get the job done. He's a sure blocker, a hard worker and extremely aggressive. He's what you want in a football player — a real hitter. Frank's another intelligent player.

"Newhouse has great hands. He didn't drop one pass he got his hands on and once he gets the ball he knows what to do with it. Bill has good speed and size.

"Bill is a strong competitor and has the desire to achieve," Roloff said, of the 6-2, 185 senior.

Giordana completed 78 of 122 passes for 1,166 yards and 11 touchdowns. He also rushed for 225 yards in 35 carries. Over the past two years he passed for 1,815 yards and 18 TDs while running for 534 yards.

game. He also had a pair of gift shots for 18 markers.

Little Chute had the edge in field goals, 17-13, but the Mustangs were limited to three free throws. Manawa was called for just 10 personal fouls in the game giving Little Chute only six attempts from the line in the entire contest.

In the meantime, Manawa hit 12 of 17 charity shots to offset the difference from the field.

It was poor field goal shooting by the Mustangs that resulted in the loop setback. Little Chute made just four of 18 in the first period and six of 20 in the second quarter. The Mustang woes continued in the third period with five out of 21 and two of eight in the final eight minutes of action. This gave the losers 17 out of 67 for the game and 25 per cent compared to Manawa's 30.2 per cent on 13 of 43.

The Mustangs did a good job defensively throughout the game and controlled rebounds on both boards. Frequently, Little Chute had second and third shots at the basket but failed to connect.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay Coach Dan Devine said Tuesday he plans no lineup changes for next Monday night's game at San Francisco despite the Packers' 33-24 defeat at New England last weekend.

Devine did say more use would be made of veteran receiver Dick Gordon, who reported last week after having been obtained on waivers from Los Angeles. Gordon played briefly at New England but did not catch a pass.

Improved passing was virtually the only aspect of the Packers' play at New England which pleased Devine. Jerry Tagge, in his second starting assignment, completed 17 of 23 passes for 267 yards, most by a Green Bay quarterback in 53 games since Don Horn passed for more than 400 in the 1969 season finale against St. Louis.

"Tagge has been doing a very good job," Devine said. "Our passing game has become much more productive. Jerry and his receivers still have to become more familiar with each other, but that will come with practice."

Highway Commission Declaration Under 348.175 Wisconsin Statutes (Frozen Road Law)

Pursuant to Section 348.175, Wisconsin Statutes, The Highway Commission declares that from December 15, 1973 and until March 1, 1974, unless previously revoked, the following gross weight limitations shall apply to vehicles transporting peeled or unpeeled forest products cut crosswise on all highways on the State Trunk Highway System except the National System at Interstate and Defense Highways.

The gross weight imposed on the highway by the wheels of any one axle shall not exceed 33,000 pounds, or for two axles less than seven feet apart, 38,000 pounds, or for groups of three consecutive axles not less than nine feet nor more than 12 feet apart, a weight of 12,000 pounds more than permitted in Section 348.153 (c). This 12,000 pounds includes the 4,000 pounds authorized by sec. 348.153 (b) 5, State.

The gross weight imposed on the highway by all axles of a vehicle or combination of vehicles shall not exceed 90,000 pounds.

All vehicles shall be legally licensed as required by statute.

Special permits for the transportation of peeled or unpeeled forest products cut crosswise are not required.

Center Ken Bowman and guard Gale Gillingham missed Tuesday's one hour practice.

Bowman, hampered by a variety of injuries most of the season, has missed several practices but has played in every game. Gillingham reported pain in the right knee which had sidelined him for 12 games last year, but Devine said he probably will be ready for San Francisco.

"Gilly was hurt Sunday, but he went ahead and played," Devine said. "Most guys with the same kind of pain wouldn't have been on the field."

Devine said running back MacArthur Lane, who sat out the New England game, also should be ready.

No more surprises, Nixon promises governors

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — President Nixon has promised Republican governors he will dispel the Watergate shadow on their political futures and has apologized for any trouble he has caused them.

The President also told a closed session of the winter meeting of the Republican Governors Association that he knows of no other scandals that could add to their embarrassment.

"The President looked at us around the room and said, 'I'm sorry if I have added to your burden,'" Tennessee Gov. Winfield Dunn said after the governors had listened for almost two hours to Nixon's Watergate defense Tuesday.

Gov. Robert D. Ray, whose state of Iowa will hold gubernatorial elections next year, was asked what effect Nixon might have for Republicans campaigning in 1974.

"I think a little more time will tell whether he will be an asset or a liability in a campaign," Ray replied. "And he brought this up himself."

"He wants to help in every way he can. The thing that will help the most, of course, will be if he can clear up Watergate."

Governors said on leaving the closed meeting that Nixon made the strongest promises yet for full disclosure of all the facts he has about the problems that began when burglars were arrested inside Democratic party headquarters on June 17, 1972.

"He indicated a number of papers will be issued clearly responding to the questions which have been raised," Dunn said. He said those questions included the President's personal finances, the ITT affair and the milk-price case.

"Every question we asked was answered in full," Missouri Gov. Christopher S. Bond said. "And he indicated an additional four-or five-point program to continue answering, in the courts, in open news sessions, through documents he expects to release and by fuller answers to the most asked questions."

Nixon also declared that, so far as he knows, no further unpleasant revelations are likely to embarrass those who stand by him.

"He said if there are, he is not aware of them," Dunn said. "If there is any information yet to be revealed, it's information he does not have."

The session, the President's third Southern stop in four days, was similar to a series he held last week at the White House with congressional Republicans to explain his side of the Watergate controversy and ask for support.

Oregon Gov. Tom McCall, who who has called for Nixon to save GOP candidates from disaster next year by clearing up Watergate before the elections, said the governors were encouraged by the meeting.

"I think they left with a sense of relief that the President was relaxed, in complete control of himself," McCall said. "I've never seen a more conversational meeting."

"It was a free-wheeling session of questions and answers," said California Gov. Ronald Reagan. "The President couldn't have been more frank."

Before meeting with the governors, Nixon spoke briefly to a crowd estimated by police at 5,000 across the street from the convention hotel on the Mississippi River bluffs.

"How much better your future looks now than it did when I came into office," Nixon told them, citing disengagement from Vietnam, peace in the Middle East and relatively low unemployment as proof.

"We have got some problems," Nixon said. "They are serious problems in terms of our energy, but that is a problem that exists all over the world."

"And all I can say is the greatness about America is that, when we've got problems, we just get out and solve them."

Energy crisis helps boost cost of living

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose sharply last month following September's slowdown, owing partly to the energy crisis and higher prices for fuel oil and gasoline, the government said today.

The Department of Labor reported that the cost of living climbed eight-tenths of one per cent in October and pushed consumer prices up 7.9 per cent above a year ago. It marked the largest jump in any 12-month period since the 8.7-per cent inflationary rate recorded in the June 1950-51 period at the start of the Korean War.

In addition to sharply higher prices for gasoline and fuel oil, rising costs for clothing, mortgage interest rates and health insurance contributed significantly to the October rise in prices, the government said.

A decline in meat and poultry prices was more than offset in the statistics by large increases in prices of restaurant meals and some food and some grocery store prices.

Food prices rose one-tenth of a per cent following a drop of seven-tenths of a per cent in September and a record 6 per cent jump in August. The increase was larger on a seasonally adjusted basis, increasing five-tenths of a per cent compared with a drop of one-tenth of a per cent on that basis on September. Grocery prices actually declined three-tenths of a per cent but the drop was offset by a 1.8-per cent jump in food purchased away from home, including restaurant meals and snacks.

Poultry, egg and pork prices fell sharply again—as they did in September —and prices for beef and veal declined as well, but prices for most other food sold in grocery stores went up, the government said.

Prices for nonfood commodities jumped nine-tenths of one per cent, sharpest this year and the biggest jump since a one per cent increase in October 1970. Seasonally adjusted, the increase was five-tenths of a per cent. Services, including rents, mortgage payments and medical fees rose 1.1 per cent, an increase not equalled since March 1970.

The over-all rise in living costs last month followed a three-tenths of a per cent rise in September and the near-record jump of 1.8 per cent in August after the lifting of the government's price freeze.

Although food price increases have moderated, the price spurt in nonfood commodities and services appears to reflect an economy still gripped in inflation.

The consumer price index in October moved up to 136.6, meaning that it cost consumers $13.66 to purchase a variety of goods that cost $10 in the 1967 base period.

The Labor Department also reported that real spendable earnings of American workers, which is the take-home pay after taxes, fell six-tenths of a per cent in October and was 3.3 per cent below a year ago.

No peace without Israeli security, Kissinger says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has warned there can be no peace if Israel's security is endangered.

Speaking Tuesday night at a dinner for Abba Eban, the Israeli foreign minister, Kissinger said the United States and Israel have finally achieved "the direct negotiations that was their goal."

"Together we shall achieve a just and lasting peace as we together have met the challenges of the past."

Kissinger was scheduled to brief senators today on the outlook for peace in the Middle East.

Eban, who sees Kissinger late this afternoon, said "I think we should try very hard to find points of disagreement but I do not think we shall find any." The foreign minister expressed gratitude for arms during the Yom Kippur war for deterring the Russians and for bringing about a cease-fire. He said he was looking forward to negotiations and "the adventure of looking for peace."

Kissinger was not expected to attend the dinner, held at the residence of Ambassador Simcha Dinitz. But in a brief appearance, he told the guests, including Sens. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., that "there will be no peace in the world if something happens to endanger the security of Israel."

Kissinger told the Senate Foreign Relations committee Tuesday that prospects are favorable for a start of Arab-Israeli peace talks next month.

His reference to "direct negotiations" at the dinner was a pleasing note for the Israelis. They have insisted for years that a Middle East settlement must be built on face-to-face bargaining with the Arabs. But the Arabs have resisted dealing directly with representatives of the Jewish state.

Kenneth Rush, the undersecretary of state, said "Israel has a world of friends" but added: "Israel has to work for U.S. friendship, not take it for granted."

Care assured for 'sleeping beauty'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 20-year-old "sleeping beauty" who has been in a coma for 18 months would get $2 million in a proposed out-of-court settlement, her attorney says.

Barbara Brader, a former grocery clerk, received permanent damage after she was given an overdose of anesthetic at a Sunnyvale clinic, attorney Bruce Walkup said Tuesday.

"Barbara is a sleeping beauty," the San Francisco attorney said. "She has been in a coma with her eyes open since June 6, 1972. She is completely flaccid like a doll — not spastic, just completely limp."

"She can be put in a chair. She makes noises, cries out and weeps, but she cannot talk."

Walkup called the settlement by the clinic and a Sunnyvale pharmacy the largest such out-of-court personal injury settlement in the country.

He said the proposed settlement would be submitted today to Santa Clara County Superior Court Judge John Benner.

The lawyer said Miss Brader was given the overdose accidentally at the Sunnyvale Medical Clinic when a radiologist ordered a one per cent solution of cocaine to be used as a local anesthetic.

"By mistake, the pharmacy supplied 10 per cent cocaine and so marked the bottle," he said.

"The doctor took the bottle, sprayed the cocaine and Barbara suffered a cardiac arrest — her heart stopped beating. This blocked oxygen to the brain and caused the permanent damage."

Emergency measures saved her life but she has remained in a coma, he said. She has been in El Camino Hospital at Mountain View since the accident, with around-the-clock care costing $45,000 a year, he added.

The settlement involves payment of $1.5 million by the clinic and $500,000 by the Arminini Pharmacy, which supplied the medication. It also asks the court to make Crocker Bank guardian to invest the award in a trust for Miss Brader.

FBI refuses to talk about its contacts with Nixon pal Rebozo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite an oft-stated policy of candor, FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley says the agency will tell the public nothing about a Miami FBI agent's contacts with President Nixon's friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

Kelley directed Tuesday that the agency refuse answers to several key questions which could either support or contradict an account Nixon has given a group of Republican congressmen.

At Kelley's order, FBI spokesmen say they will not answer the questions because of the confidentiality of a Senate Watergate committee staff interview with the agent, Kenneth W. Whittaker, who is in charge of the Miami office.

But Robert Franck, assistant FBI director in charge of the external affairs division, said the committee had not requested the FBI to keep silent about Whittaker's contacts with Rebozo.

W. Hall Smith, a spokesman for committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., said he was amazed that the FBI would cite the committee staff interview as a reason for refusing to answer questions about the situation.

Franck said the fact that Nixon himself first mentioned the episode does not alter Kelley's decision for secrecy.

At a Friday meeting with the congressmen, Nixon spoke about the $100,000 political contribution given to Rebozo for the Nixon campaign by industrialist Howard Hughes. Rebozo has said he received the money in 1970 and kept it in a safe deposit box until returning it last June.

Questions have arisen about whether the money Rebozo returned was the same cash he received, or whether the sum initially received might have been used in some way before it was returned.

Nixon told the congressmen that Rebozo "had the FBI check it out," according to Rep. Charles W. Whalen, R-Ohio, who took notes on the session.

Nixon said the FBI took fingerprints from the currency and checked the serial numbers of the bills, Whalen told a reporter. "He left the implication that the serial numbers checked with the same money received two years earlier, but he didn't say that," the congressmen reported.

In Tuesday editions, the New York Times identified Whittaker as the agent involved in the episode and described him as a personal friend of Rebozo.

The Times reported that Whittaker has told superiors that in response to Rebozo's request, he informed Rebozo he could not verify that the cash returned was identical to the cash received.

Whalen questioned why the FBI was involved. "In the first place, what's the FBI doing there? Under whose authority?" he asked.

Newsmen put the same question to FBI spokesmen who refused comment. Franck and other spokesmen also refused to answer these questions:

—Is Whittaker a personal friend of Rebozo?

—Did Rebozo ask the agent to inspect the money and did Whittaker do so? When did this take place?

—Did Whittaker or anyone else in the FBI run checks on fingerprints and serial numbers from the money as Nixon stated?

Kelley was unavailable to newsmen Tuesday.

After receiving numerous inquiries from newsmen, the FBI issued a statement, cleared by Kelley, Tuesday night.

Churches granted immunity from state inspection during dinners

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Legislators granted immunity Tuesday to churches which had objected to state sanitation supervision of their banquets and luncheons.

The decision by the legislature's Joint Committee for Review of Administrative Rules was opposed by the state health chairman, Dr. George Handy.

Churches had objected to a rule under which they were required to obtain a routine restaurant permit if they planned to serve public meals four or more days in the course of a year.

The rule did not apply to a meal served exclusively for members of a civic or church group.

The state provided permit applicants with health consultants to check sanitation of kitchen equipment, offer serving advice and instruct volunteer kitchen workers in sanitary handling of food.

Handy appealed for continued application of the rule for churches, saying disease from spoiled or mishandled food can strike a churchgoer just as painfully as a civic club's guest or a restaurant patron.

"My point is: are we, as the Division of Health, responsible for all the people or just those who do not belong to certain organizations?" he said.

Handy cited a northern Wisconsin church which, with a limited kitchen capacity, wound up trying to serve 600 persons, 125 of which were infected with food poisoning and one of which died.

"I do not think it makes any difference to the 125 people who were stricken whether they had on their cross or were wearing a fraternal emblem," he said.

The legislative committee had been petitioned by church officials to suspend the rule.

Critics of the rule had said it was extended to churches on the recommendation of a study panel heavy with restaurateurs who were accused of disliking the competition from church fund-raising meals.

The legislative committee told the Department of Health and Social Services to draft a new rule with the help of another study panel whose members include church representatives.

Churches had been exempted since 1957 from the permit requirement. The department adopted the church-inclusive rule earlier this year after Handy's Division of Health requested a definition of his health inspectors' responsibilities for supervising public meals.

Republican Rep. Tommy Thompson of Elroy censured the selection of members for the original study panel.

Democratic Rep. Michael Ferrail of Racine complained that the panel had restaurateurs and tavern proprietors but no appreciable church representation.

Democratic Rep. Joanne Duren of Cazenovia said the rule was confusing and ought to be rewritten.

Forms for faster, easier filing developed by IRS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Improved income tax forms to make filing easier and faster have been announced by Internal Revenue Commissioner Donald C. Alexander.

And, Alexander urged employers Tuesday to distribute W2 withholding statements as early as possible to enable employees to file early.

Taxpayers who file for refunds in January usually receive them within four to five weeks, while persons filing later may have to wait up to eight weeks because of the greater volume of returns being processed, Alexander said.

He noted that at any rate W2 forms generally must be distributed by Jan. 31.

Among the changes in the forms this year is inclusion of the campaign fund donation checkoff on the form itself. It was on a separate form last year, drawing criticism from the IRS.

Alexander said the new form will give taxpayers an opportunity to contribute retroactively from their 1972 returns if they wish.

Several other changes were noted, including:

—Reduction in the number of revenue sharing questions to a single question.

—Elimination of Schedule B for reporting details of dividends and interest.

—Elimination of income limitations for using the 1040A short form.

—Elimination of the requirement to list contributions for which the taxpayer has canceled checks or receipts.

—Elimination of the requirement to list names and dates for claiming payments to doctors, dentists and hospitals.

Alexander estimated that more than 81 million individual returns will be filed before next April 15, compared to 79 million this year.

Physical education getting boost at New London

By JOHN LEE

Post-Crescent staff writer

NEW LONDON — Giving full credit to a five-day week physical education program, counting physical education grades as part of the student's grade point average, making the courses fully elective and starting and expanding other sports programs may have renewed interest in senior high physical education here.

Since September, no more standard physical education is required for sophomores, junior or seniors, but the courses offered count toward students' graduation requirements.

John Lehman, the district's curriculum coordinator, said the program is "following our philosophy of putting all course areas on an equal footing — it recognizes physical education as being as important as the other courses. It also gives the students a chance to exercise their choice and use their talents better."

"It gives the student a chance to pick an activity he likes," Robert Dehlinger, the physical education department chairman said. "Before, we had them just three days a week and it was harder for them to progress."

He added that smaller classes, which average about 22 students, and the every day class meetings "are the big things to me. You can pay more individual attention to the kids and work with them more now — and five days a week makes the program more concentrated."

Dehlinger said that the district has offered "life time activities" for years in the physical education program, "but all you could really get through were the fundamentals, rules, philosophy, and some basic skills."

Randy Marsh, the other boys' physical education instructor, said that student enthusiasm seems better than when the courses were required. "We get the kids who really want to be there in most cases," he said.

He said the program offers variety, and most of the "clusters" are compatible. He also said that more athletes are taking physical education now than had taken it before, when the course was required for everyone but interscholastic athletes.

Carol Hovey, the girls' physical education teacher, said, "I think that the girls that are competing are enrolled because they're the ones that want to be in physical education — that's what I like about it personally."

All three instructors agreed that some revision will be made in the groupings. "I think we could do a lot of different things with the groups," Miss Hovey adds. "I think the girls chose clusters they were familiar with," she said.

A course in girl's body mechanics has just nine members, while courses in archers, jogging, and tumbling and apparatus were canceled because of low enrollment figures.

"There has to be room for improvement" Dehlinger said. "It would be unusual to hit everything perfect the first try. 'I feel we have to offer an advanced level of these things to the students that are ready for them,'" he added. He also said he would like to expand the school's intramural program.

As one of his class assignments, Marsh also organizes and supervises a noon hour recreation program for students. About 80 students have been participating each noon hour.

"We offer activities where a lot of kids can participate," he said. The program has had activities such as tennis, floor tennis, and horseshoe pitching, and noon hour tournaments have been held for archery, foosball, ping pong, badminton, chess, checkers, and cribbage. Handball, volleyball, and basketball as well as trampolines, may be included in future activities, he said.

"We offer enough activities where the kids can get involved, and there aren't any kids sitting on the sidelines," said Marsh.

The facilities are also available when

Charlie has his wheels

Charlie Bessett got his new velocipede back Tuesday night, two days after it was stolen from alongside Oneida Heights where he lives.

The Post-Crescent carried a story Tuesday detailing the plight of the 85-year-old widower who saved from his Social Security checks for a year to buy a $173 velocipede, only to have it stolen three days after it was delivered. The thief cut a heavy chain that secured the vehicle to a rack.

Early Tuesday evening, a 13-year-old Appleton boy notified police that he had seen a velocipede matching that described as Bessett's abandoned behind a store near Oneida Heights.

Patrolman William Steward investigated. It was his grandfather's three-wheeler.

The bike appeared to be undamaged, but Bessett said he would have it inspected today. The security chain was missing.

Bessett, who said he was so excited he forgot to ask the name of the boy who found the bike he never expected to see again, will take the vehicle to his son's garage for the winter. He kept it inside at Oneida Heights Tuesday night.

Bessett said someone from a school had called him to tell about a fund drive that had already netted $25 toward a new bicycle. "That was pretty darn nice," he said, but he told the caller to return the money. He had his bike back by then.

A Menasha man had planned to contact the velocipede's manufacturer today in an attempt to get the stolen bike replaced.

Among the many other calls Charlie received was one from a Green Bay resident wanting to help.

'City can't move faster' on school district suit

CHILTON —The city is moving as fast as it can regarding a suit brought against it by the school district, according to a report given Tuesday by City Atty. William Engler Jr. to aldermen.

Also appearing before the council were A. W. Larson, school board president and Supt. A. W. Gordon.

The case revolves around $46,000 in a sinking fund. The money is claimed by both the city and the school district. The sum results from monies left and invested by the city after the bonds for school purposes were paid off and the school district formed from a city school system.

The school board is suing the city for the money, after a joint declaratory settlement to be entered into by both the city and the school district was denied by the city. Larson said he would like to see the case move along and get settled one way or the other. With school construction upcoming, he thought that all concerned would not want "this hanging over our heads."

Ald. Mrs. Raymond Hemauer (2nd) and Thomas Meyer (3rd) questioned Engler about legal fees. Engler said that fees are based on time spent on the case, and he said he had no way of knowing how much has been involved. He noted that briefs had been filed in the case by opposing attorneys and that the court agreed that some of the facts presented in the case by both the school district and city attorney would be stipulated to save time. But, he added, "We are in a lawsuit, and we must face the many technicalities that have to be worked through."

Nov. 6 crash injuries fatal to woman, 41

A rural Hortonville mother of seven died this morning of injuries she suffered in a Nov. 6 traffic accident at State 76 and Outagamie County Trunk JJ near Hortonville.

Mrs. Walter Stoeger, 41, route 1, Hortonville, died of massive pulmonary embolism, according to Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps.

Her death raises the county traffic death toll for the year to 41, 10 more than the previous record high. The toll was 20 on this date a year ago.

County police said Mrs. Stoeger was alone in her car which was northbound on State 76 when it was struck broadside by a car driven by David C. Weiland, 21, 218 W. Bath St., Hortonville, who was eastbound on County Trunk JJ. Police said Weiland did not stop for a stop sign.

The accident occurred at 1:05 p.m. Police reports indicated that Mrs. Stoeger had pelvis, head, hip, neck and arm injuries. Weiland had minor injuries. Both were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Mrs. Stoeger, a Sturgeon Bay native, lived in the Hortonville area about 10 years. She is survived by her husband, a daughter and six sons.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Mary Catholic Church, Greenville. Burial will be in the parish cemetery. Visitation will be at the Borchardt-Moder Funeral Home, Hortonville, after 2 p.m. Friday until time of services.

In other action, the council approved hiring an assistant director of public works, to start probably Jan. 1.

David Schlieter, 34, of Menomonee Falls, will be the new assistant. He and his wife have four children. His starting salary will be $750 a month. He will work first in the sewage plant and then the water plant to become familiar with the city units.

The City Council will meet with community industrial plant managers at 8 p.m., Nov. 28, at the city hall to discuss the sewage plant operations and operation restrictions outlined by the state Department of Natural Resources.

Profit organizations will be charged a $5-a-meeting fee for use of the city owned Masonic Temple building. Civic groups will not be charged for use of the hall.

In other action, the public grounds committee recommended quotations be taken on some maintenance and painting at the Youth Center. This was approved by council action. No regulations or rules were set down by the council for the operation of the youth center. Aldermen felt after meeting with recreation officials that there were no problems at the center.

A bid for crushed stone by the J and E Construction Co. of Stockbridge was approved at $1.90 a yard.

To conserve on the use of energy, the council approved lighting Christmas Tree decorations from Dec. 15 to Jan. 1 instead of starting in November.

Dentist will open practice in Fremont

FREMONT — Dr. Harold Armstrong will open a dental practice in the new future in the Fremont Cooperation building.

The building, constructed for a medical clinic, will be slightly remodeled.

Larry Laux, who has operated a beauty shop in the building since 1964, will continue to occupy a portion of the premises.

Committee near recommendation on library plan

By DON CASTONIA

Post-Crescent staff writer

A special Outagamie County library study committee came close to making a formal recommendation Tuesday night for improved library service in the county, but then decided to hold off until a meeting when the full committee would be present. Three of the eight members were absent.

Four of the five present Tuesday indicated they were prepared to recommend a county federated library system, as opposed to a county consolidated system.

Under a federated system each community retains ownership and control over its library with the county providing services. Under a consolidated system the county would own all of the libraries.

Genevieve Beno, Kaukauna, was the lone member to challenge federation, saying she wanted to look at the two systems more before making up her mind.

She noted that Brown County has a consolidated system and that it is working well. She suggested that the Brown County librarian and the librarian from Manitowoc County, which has a federated system, be asked to meet with the committee.

Gordon Bebeau, Appleton librarian and vice chairman of the committee, said the biggest point in favor of the federated system was that it did not take away local control.

A previous study committee had made a recommendation for a consolidated system two years ago, but it was rejected overwhelmingly by the county board.

Bebeau and Jo Ann Fleming, Kimberly librarian, also reported on Manitowoc County's "Public Library in Your Mailbox" program to reach the rural residents who do not have library service.

Under the program started in 1971, Bebeau said that a catalogue is mailed twice a year to about 10,000 rural route residents and shut-ins in the cities describing new titles that residents can order by mail. The library pays the postage for both sending the books to the borrower and the return postage.

"They have achieved just about 100 per cent coverage in the county with this system," Bebeau said. He suggested that Outagamie County should move toward a similar service or toward bookmobiles. The population without library service in Outagamie County is about the same as that in Manitowoc County, he added.

The mail library has about 3,800 titles, all paperbacks, Bebeau said. In 1971 the circulation was about 35,000

Applicants for police sought

NEW LONDON — The police department is accepting applications for a patrolman until Dec. 11.

Requirements include an age of 20 years or more, and a minimum of 60 college credits or equivalent vocational training in the police science or police administration field. An equivalent combination of education and experience may also be considered.

Application forms and further information are available at the police department.

Christmas art sale at New London

NEW LONDON — A Christmas Art Mart, coordinated by the Wolf River Art League, will be run Friday through Sunday, Nov. 30-Dec. 2, at the old City Hall on N. Water St.

League members are invited to display their projects for sale. Items will include dried flower pictures, paintings, decoupage, plaques, handmade tree ornaments and other arts and crafts.

The market will be open from 1-10 p.m. Nov. 30, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Dec. 1, and from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dec. 2.

Plans for the league's Christmas party were also discussed at a recent meeting. The Dec. 12 party will include a social hour at 6:30 and a dinner at 7 p.m. at the Midtown Bar.

Reservations, at $3 a person, can be made with Carol Heinkel. Members attending the party are also asked to bring a handmade tree ornament for an exchange gift. Handmade centerpieces or art works can also be contributed for door prizes.

State prompts center changes

Outagamie County may have to alter slightly its plans for changing the use of space at the county health center.

County Executive Alvin Woehler said the state is against the use of one wing for people with developmental disabilities and, instead, recommends that the wing, along with others, be converted for PMI (public medical institution) use.

Woehler and Eugene Speener, center superintendent, met in Madison Monday with representatives of the divisions of mental hygiene and family services on the proposed space and Woehler said the state also has agreed to give the county an interim certification for its 43 psychiatric beds pending remodeling of one center wing for those patients.

A $200,000 proposed remodeling of bathrooms in all six wings to permit men and women to be housed in the same wing has been delayed by the county board and is now back in committee.

Woehler said he would push for passage of the remodeling resolution in December so all of the psychiatric patients can live in one wing. The county will not receive final certification from the state unless that is done, Woehler said.

In a presentation to the county board last week, Speener outlined a space-use plan showing the 3-West wing for patients with developmental disabilities.

Woehler said that state officials recommended that those patients be handled outside the institution if possible, in a home-type situation with no more than four to six together in one facility.

The executive said he also will recommend the creation of a special committee to meet regularly with representatives from the divisions of mental hygiene and family services to evaluate both programs and facilities during 1974.

Under the state budget bill, Woehler said it appeared there will be a total state takeover of programs under the unified health services board on Jan. 1, 1975, with the state contracting with the county for facilities.

However, he said, "there appears to be a difference in philosophy" between the state administration and the two divisions responsible for the programs on that point.

He said he was opposed to total state takeover, but agreed that some "monitoring" probably was necessary where state and federal funds are involved.

Board OK's year-round FVTI plan

By DAVE WEITZ

Post-Crescent staff writer

A model for a year-round school operation was formally approved by the Fox Valley Technical Institute District 12 board Tuesday in a resolution calling on school departments to determine the feasibility of converting programs to year-round operation.

The board has examined year-round operation in the past and the model was originally presented on Oct. 30 at a board workshop.

The action, approving the enabling resolution, will permit school committees to make plans for eventual switch of school operations to a year-round basis, said William Sirek, director. Board member G. K. Unbehauen noted that any conversion to year-round operation still would require 5-board approval and negotiations with employees.

The resolution directs all school departments to conduct an annual study to determine feasibility of converting programs to year-round operation. "Further," it said, "the board solicits formal implementation proposals from departments on programs which are found, during the preliminary survey, to be feasible for operation."

Board members also approved payments on three construction projects, raised the pay of clerical teacher aides, and authorized purchase of $6,100 in equipment.

The clerical teacher aide salaries were raised from $369 to $397 after Sirek told board members that the $369 base pay was less than the $397 base established for receptionist and typists.

Because of the inequity in pay the school had experienced a rapid turnover in employees as clerical teacher aides, said Sirek.

Construction payments approved were: P. G. Miron, $3,721; Schutte Mochon, architects, $2,491; Hietpas Inc., $7,627; Lauer Brothers Inc., $79,302; Pieper Electric Inc., $5,760; M & S Electric, $1,267; Oudenhoven Co., $5,076; Towne Inc., $3,157; and Hietpas Inc., $4,002.

Equipment purchases approved were for:

A fuel control system testing set, $1,285; powertrain five-ton one end lift to lift trucks and trailers, $695; a Souix valve refacer set for a diesel mechanics course, $695 and an IBM typesetting keyboard at $3,456.

The board also approved sale of a surplus lathe at $100.

Installation of a 10,000 gallon fuel tank at a new facility under construction also was approved. Dominic Bordini, deputy director, told the members that the new building will be equipped with heating equipment which can be fired either with gas supplies or fuel oil.

Clintonville to borrow $100,000

CLINTONVILLE — The City Council decided Tuesday to authorize the temporary borrowing of $100,000 to pay current expenditures until the payment of shared taxes from the state is received. It also paid the $50,000 borrowed against this account, which was due Nov. 20.

The city will borrow the sum of $50,000 from the Dairyman's State Bank and $50,000 from the First National Bank, both of Clintonville.

The city shall execute to the respective lenders its promissory note payable with interest at the rate of 5 per cent, simple interest, per annum, on or before the 31st day of December, 1973. The note will be signed by the mayor and clerk.

A total of $100,000 was the amount the Council said was necessary to the safety and interest of the city.

This action was necessary as the state is not leasing the $165 million in shared tax payments that were destined for local governments Monday, until Dane County Circuit Court Judge W. L. Jackman decides whether part of the money should be paid. Jackman heard final arguments last Friday from the municipalities that are contesting the state's formula for estimating 1973 municipal populations, upon which shared tax payments are based in part.

Physical education. . .

students have a free hour, and floor tennis and ping pong often occupy students' slack times.

Miss Hovey, besides supervising tumbling, cheerleading and the Girls Athletic Association (GAA), is also coaching a girl's interscholastic sports which have been absorbed into the school's regular interscholastic program.

Besides girls' track and field, which was run interscholastically here last year, girls' teams will compete with other schools, and in state tournaments in basketball and volleyball.

About 18 girls provided enough numbers for a varsity and junior varsity volleyball squad, and about 25 girls have shown an interest in the upcoming basketball season.

"I think the girls really enjoy it," she said. "Having a program like that met the needs of a lot of girls. It met the needs that hadn't been met before."

Girls are eligible for varsity letters, and volleyball players received their awards at a recent pep assembly with football players and cross country runners.

"I think it gives them motivation," she added. "It's important to them. Of course, they also become recognized around school as girl athletes like the guys do — it gives them another type of recognition."

She added, "I hope the program we have now in physical education or interscholastically doesn't take anything away from GAA or intramurals — because that's where you really get the involvement from the student body."

Over 300 students, out of a total of 665, are participating in the physical education program. Courses offered include body mechanics, basic net games, gymnastics, net sports and some adapted courses for girls in the first semester.

Second semester courses for girls are playing, dancing, pedaling, modern dance, yoga, track and field, basketball, bowling, softball, body mechanics and golf.

Boys' courses include touch football, badminton, volleyball, handball, soccer, gymnastics, weight training, wrestling, archers, tumbling jogging and handball.

Second semester offerings for boys will include bowling, basketball and tennis; gymnastics, tumbling, track and field; weight training, conditioning, games of low organization, and softball, dance, and golf.

New London Sodality discusses Casa Clare

NEW LONDON — Mrs. Mary Lou McClenahan, vice president of Casa Clare, a woman's halfway house in Appleton, was the guest speaker Thursday when the Senior Sodality met.

The sodality voted to donate $25 to the Waupaca County Mental Health organization. It also decided to hold workshops on the first Thursday of each month to make articles that can be sold by the group.

(Thiel photo)

Life in rural Costa Rica outlined at 4-H meeting

DARBOY — Life in Costa Rica as a member of the 4-H International Youth Development program, was explained by Sharon Danes, route 1, New Holstein, at the Calumet County 4-H leader recognition dinner here Thursday.

She worked with 4-S agents and members doing volunteer work, in addition to participating in a cultural exchange. The 4-S in Costa Rica is similar to the American 4-H programs. Miss Danes has been hired to fill a post as home economist at Durand.

She lived in rural areas with large families in homes with dirt floors and very few conveniences. A water spout and one light socket were considered luxuries. Most of her traveling was by bus, jeep or on foot.

Costa Rica, she said, has only two seasons with a nine month rainy season when it rains "every single day."

During her stay Miss Danes helped Costa Ricans plant gardens with seeds sent from Calumet County 4-H clubs. She showed slides of the progress she made, and said making a garden there is very different to here. She said the earth must be built up so the seeds won't wash away, there are many insects and a fence must be built around it because animals wander loose.

While there Miss Danes developed a taste for the Costa Rican food. She said that at times she felt she could do things faster by herself, however, she learned to work with the natives.

Among her experiences was castrating pigs, planning a campout for the 4-S youths and learning to dance to a Latin beat, in addition to learning to speak Spanish so fluently it was difficult to speak English when the occasion called for it.

Miss Danes said later she would have preferred to have better knowledge of the language, because though she had taken Spanish in high school and college she would have had less difficulty learning and teaching in Costa Rica.

Hilbert school board names three to negotiate new teacher contract

HILBERT — Chairman Alfred Fochs and directors Mrs. Marion Mirsberger and Dennis Ribbens will serve on the teacher contract negotiating committee for the board of education, it was announced at the school board meeting Monday night.

Fochs said there will be a meeting before negotiations begin "to get the feeling from the board — we are trying to get our feet on the ground," he said. The teachers have not yet announced who will represent them.

Supt. Richard Yenchsky indicated he did not want to sit in on sessions as he did last year. He pointed out that his concern has been for education and that during the last few months, teachers have made "a very conscientious effort to mend gaps and I have tried to do the same," he said.

Yenchsky said it was a difficult situation "to fight with a teacher across the table at night, then ask him to do a favor for you the next morning."

Fochs said he had discussed the situation with Mrs. Mirsberger and the two agreed that they didn't want to "throw the administrator into the same situation as last year's," but asked that someone from the administration be available as a resource person during the caucuses.

Negotiations on the 1974-1975 master contract will begin in February.

The board delayed action on a contract with Durrant, Deininger, Dommer, Kramer and Gordon, of Wattertown, to serve as consultants for equipment and furniture for the new night school.

The board previously had agreed to hire the firm on an hourly basis rather than for a percentage of the cost figure but decided that the contract should specify the maximum number of hours to be permitted.

A contract was approved for Deborah Malueg as Title I perceptual motor aide to replace Mrs. Gloria DeCleeen, who is continuing her education. Miss Malueg is a June graduate with a bachelor's degree.

She will receive $2.25 per hour plus $150 as assistant girl's athletic coach. She has a major in physical education and a minor in health.

In other business, the board: — Learned that the school policy books were delayed because of difficulties by Davies, Brickell Associates in obtaining binders for them.

— Heard that the fuel allocation for the new high school building had not been received.

— Heard a report that the average school temperature is now maintained at 68 degrees during the day and 60 degrees at night. The temperature is reduced at 4 p.m. Only one boiler is being used.

— Was informed that parents of students who have been absent for more than the school average of 1.7 days have been contacted by school officials.

and in 1972 it was about 50,000.

Fleming said the current budget for the mail program is about $26,000, including salaries, book acquisition and postage. Bebeau said this was about one-third the cost of putting a bookmobile on the road.

He estimated that it would cost between $22,100 and $33,000 to start a mail library service in Outagamie County, exclusive of the physical facilities. About one-fourth of the cost would be for the initial purchase of paperback books.

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Scleroderma affects skin, digestive tract

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told that I have scleroderma, but nothing was explained except that it is sometimes called "hard skin."

I am losing weight fast and have Raynaud's disease. I have muscle cramps. Is this the Raynaud's or the scleroderma? I take pills for circulation. Is there no way I can gain weight? —A.N.C.

I just don't know any way to explain scleroderma in simple terms except to say that it is one of the collagen diseases. These diseases have this in common: They attack supporting fibrous tissues and the jelly-like material (collagen) in the cells.

Different types of collagen diseases tend to attack specific parts of the human system, although there can be some overlapping.

Scleroderma — the word itself — means a hard, thickened skin, since that is the primary area attacked by scleroderma. However, Raynaud's disease, which involves spasm of the arteries, often accompanies scleroderma. (Arthritis also is common with scleroderma.)

Your muscle cramps are probably due to the spasms of the arteries and the resultant faulty circulation.

While scleroderma chiefly affects the skin, it also can bother other structures, particularly the digestive tract, and some patients have trouble swallowing. You didn't mention that in your letter, but it could explain your loss of weight. The way to correct that would be to eat more frequent meals and to concentrate on high-calorie foods to get the most nourishment from a given volume of food.

The cause of scleroderma is not known, but women in their 50s are most often afflicted.

Treatment usually is with steroid drugs (of the cortisone family). The use of potassium para-aminobenzoate also gives favorable results.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband just returned from the hospital where he had a double hernia operation. We would like an opinion from you with regard to the amount of time necessary to take off from work.

What would you consider the average time to be taken off from work? —Mrs. A.S.

I'm glad you added that last sentence, because recovery time would depend on all sorts of variables, what type of work and how strenuous the job. In an average situation, though, I wouldn't consider two weeks too long. His surgeon should be the final judge.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am on a swimming team and we do pushups every day. I've been told this is harmful because I'm a woman. Is this true? If so why? —J.B.

Not true. It will develop the muscles of the upper chest but will not harm you in any way. Just makes you a stronger swimmer.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We have two teen-age daughters who have been wearing glasses for years. They would like to switch to contact lenses. We have heard that people who wear contacts for years eventually ruin their eyes and have trouble thereafter. Is there any truth to this? —Mrs. W.D.

I know of no truth to this, so long as the contacts are used properly. Some people can tolerate them for longer periods than others, but in all cases, the contacts should not be worn without removing them after a number of hours. The number of hours varies from person to person. Trying to wear contacts constantly can, in time, damage the cornea, or covering of the eyeball. So if you let your daughters have contacts, explain to them that they must observe this precaution. And, if any irritation develops, they must report it to the doctor at once.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is meant by chronic cholecystitis with lithiasis? Is there any treatment other than surgery? —B.T.

It means gall bladder disease, including gall stones. For all practical purposes, surgery is the answer. Other methods may stall the trouble for a time, but they don't cure it.

Police & fire beat

Brian Hawley, 9, 131 W. Broadway Drive, received a head bump in a two-car accident at Brewster and Clark streets about 7 p.m. Monday.

He was riding in the car driven by his mother, Ilene, which police said was heading east on Brewster when it was struck broadside in the intersection by the second car, moving north on Clark and driven by Paul S. Morgan, 19, 491 Gail St., Neenah.

The Hawley auto continued moving, jumping the northeast curb and moving almost 100 feet from the site of the impact before striking the west side of a house at 308 W. Brewster St.

Damage to the house, owned by James Beyer, 822 E. South St., was estimated at $300.

The theft of $175 from a cash drawer was discovered Monday at the Lullaby Shop, 429 W. College Ave. Police said there was no indication of forced entry into the drawer, and gave no mention of forced entry into the building.

Two rear tires and wheels valued together at $95 were reported stolen Sunday or Monday from the car of Jeffrey L. Otto, 933 W. Bell Ave., while the vehicle was parked at Jack & Dick's Service, 1818 N. Locust St.

A $120 calculator was reported stolen Saturday noon from Gimbels. Police said the machine had been kept in an unlocked glass showcase and may have been taken by a couple, who moments before had inquired about it.

Gerald L. Korpela, 2126 S. Walden Ave., reported the theft of a tool box containing tools valued at $75 after his two cars were broken into late Sunday. He told police the cars were parked in a lot behind his apartment.

Donald Korth, 32, 1906 N. Charlotte St., was sentenced Monday to 180 days in the county jail after he was found guilty of driving while intoxicated and driving after revocation.

Korth pleaded guilty to both charges before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2. Schaefer granted Korth Huber Law privileges, but revoked his driver's license for one year.

Both charges stemmed from a 9 p.m. arrest on Nov. 17 at Prospect Street and Darboy Road in Combined Locks.

Stephen B. Denman, 26, 8 Newberry Court, was placed on probation for two years and ordered to make restitution of nearly $1,000 after he was found guilty Monday of cashing worthless checks.

Denman pleaded guilty to the three counts, for checks totaling $128 and cashed last Dec. 25 and 26 at Hoffman Drugs, 219 S. Walter Ave. The plea was accepted by Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Schaefer then provided for the probation and ordered Denman to make restituion on those three checks, in addition to 16 others totaling $870.

Strange oversight

There are strange elements in the angry dispute between aggrieved municipalities and the state government about delays in the distribution of local shares of state-yielded taxes and the litigation in which some of the major communities have challenged the accuracy of the population counts of the Department of Administration that are at the heart of the issue.

State officials assert that they cannot pay out a part of the money owed, pending a final adjustment of the dispute about the precise allocations due some of the localities, although always in the past such later adjustments were accepted and went unchallenged.

Under the historic method of paying income tax revenue shares according to the domicile of the taxpayer, such adjustments were made as a matter of routine. If a locality was shown to be entitled to a greater portion of the state receipts, the reconciliation was made in the next succeeding allocation. If there was an over-payment, the adjustment was made in precisely the same manner in the next payment.

What is basically at stake in this quarrel between city halls and the state capitol, however, is the state method of calculating the amounts due.

Disclosed in that quarrel is the curious fact that after all of the planning, and researching, and debating, and boasting in Madison about the celebrated "reform" of the state tax sharing system, the question of the availability of reliable population data during the period of a decade between the federal census tabulations was never raised — by the state or by its municipalities.

The question was not raised a year ago because the U. S. census documents then were comparatively current, and were apparently accepted by the state and its localities as the most reliable counts available to govern the per capita distribution that is a part of the new sharing formula.

But now those counts are more than three years old. A year hence they will be further out of date. Not until 1981, at the very earliest, will there be at hand a documented count that will be acceptable to all parties and that courts will be inclined to define as indisputable. Remembering that this state debated tax redistribution over more than a decade, and that half a dozen major study commissions were involved, this is a curious oversight, indeed.

A pact for all seasons?

The revolt in Greece of students and some workers demonstrates the difficulty of maintaining pacts which make sense in one generation and tend to drift from the original purpose in another.

As a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Greece was pledged to defend the "free world" against Communist aggression. That aggression threat was — and perhaps still is — very real. But can Greece since its government seizure by a military junta in 1967 be considered part of the "free world"? Doubts about the answer are bound to be influential in determining what the attitude of other NATO members should be toward the recent revolt.

The original coup came, the colonels explained, because of threats of Communist influence to the existing government. It would maintain strict controls until those threats abated. This last summer, the colonels' junta did appear to move closer to restoring some civil liberties. The monarchy in exile was abolished by national referendum. Critics of the vote claimed it really threatened to take a tougher stand if it did not pass. But after the favorable reaction from the Greek voters, plans were made for a return to constitutional rule.

In fact the very weekend when the students rebelled, Prime Minister Spiros Markezinis had scheduled a news conference to explain how elections would be held and constitutional rule returned in only one more year. When the students barricaded themselves on their campus and there seemed to be some signs that their revolt would be shared by workers and peasants, martial law was reimposed. An "anarchidal minority" was supposed to have started the violence. It is usual for right wing adherents to blame the left for problems.

But the real shake up for NATO enthusiasts has been the current Greek government's disassociation from the conflict in the Middle East. In 1972 President Nixon explained that our air and naval bases in Greece, under verbal attack in this country by critics of the Greek regime, were essential "for the defense of Israel." The present regime, however, refused to permit Greek bases to be used for the U. S. airlift to Israel last month. In spite of the conciliatory statements made by former Vice President Spiro Agnew about the nice order in Greece, there is probably suspicion among the colonels that too liberal voices are sounding off in the United States.

Greece has had traditionally good relations with the Arab countries. It also needs Arab oil, something that is causing a good deal of influence among European attitudes toward the Middle East right now. Entirely aside from the regrettable lack of consultation with our European allies over our military alert last month and whether or not President Nixon has neglected his responsibilities because of Watergate, things are not the same for Greece regarding the Soviet Union as once they were. Its own claims of the dangers of communism are seen at home rather than coming from abroad. Russian support of the Arab countries, conflicts with Greek allegiance to all the countries of NATO, especially the United States.

The student revolt in Thailand resulted in a new regime. It is not likely to end up that way in Greece. But the situation once more calls for an agonizing reappraisal of the concepts and operations of NATO that European members are promoting.

Give Packer tickets to Villas Hope, Phoenix

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

I am appealing to the residents of our area to think twice before they sell their tickets to the Packer-Viking game to be held at Lambeau Stadium in Green Bay on Saturday, December 8 at noon. Would these ticket holders consider donating their tickets to the men and boys at our half-way houses, Villa Hope and Villa Phoenix? It would be such a thrill for our clients to see a National Football League game. They are great Packer backers. In all we have twenty one clients who would be truly appreciative of tickets, and the donor would have a tax deduction. If you don't have tickets and would like to make a donation, I am sure I could buy some. I'll gladly pick up any tickets offered, or they can be sent to the address below. Can you help us provide a day to remember for our clients?

Could Governors have Agnew problem?

MADISON — Gov. Patrick Lucey recently seemed surprised and perhaps slightly annoyed when he was asked whether the awkward consequences of too-casual selection of vice presidential nominees, as demonstrated during the last year, suggested anything to him about the newly defined relationship of Wisconsin nominees for governor and lieutenant governor in state constitutional law.

Last year Sen. George McGovern was mortified and surely hurt politically when he felt obliged to invite his first vice presidential choice to withdraw because he had been misled about Sen. Thomas Eagleton's mental health history.

A few weeks ago, in one of the most sordid incidents in the history of the republic, President Nixon's two time vice president resigned in disgrace after narrowly avoiding criminal prosecution. No one can doubt that both incidents will have a profound effect on vice presidential nominations in the future.

New constitutional law

The question to the governor at his last meeting with the press related to the possibility that future governors of Wisconsin may be compromised by their forced association, under new constitutional law, with lieutenant governor candidates with whom they may or may not be compatible, and who may conceivably hurt them seriously without available recourse.

The new law provides that the No. 1 and No. 2 nominees on party tickets run in tandem. They run as a team. When the candidate for governor wins, the subordinate candidate wins also.

What follows is not intended, in any conceivable interpretation, to reflect upon Lt. Gov. Martin Schreiber. Indeed, as Lucey pointedly recalled when the query was made, Schreiber was probably a substantial asset to Lucey as nominee for governor, having a demonstrated support in crucial Milwaukee, to illustrate.

Yet the political history of this state includes the election to the lieutenant governorship in past times of some decidedly inferior men. There is no reason to believe that it won't happen again. Within the memory of most present Wisconsin voters, for example, there emerged through a strange quirk a lieutenant governor of such dubious stature that the state government establishment figuratively prayed for the preservation of the health of the elected governor.

Although the new law requires a nominee for governor to run as head of a team of two, he has no lawful involvement in the selection of the underling. That is left to the free — and sometimes — casual — choice of the voters in the celebrated open privacy system of Wisconsin. Conceivably he could express a preference during a primary for the guidance of such voters as might respond to such counsel, but it would be awkward and very likely compromising to his own candidacy.

First under new law

The Lucey-Schreiber election was the first under the new law, and if the governor's testimony is accepted, it has been a comfortable and helpful association.

Nevertheless, and remembering the casual responses of the Wisconsin body politic to the lesser offices on state ballots, there is no assurance that future governors will be as fortunate.

Such considerations were not mentioned during the deliberations about the constitutional amendment. Instead, the legislature and the electorate responded to the idea, plausible enough standing alone, that a Republican or Democratic governor should have a standing of compatible views and purposes.

Another unforeseen contingency has emerged from the tandem ticket rule. It would be surprising if the Lucey-Schreiber ticket is not repeated next year. If it is, it will have an even or better prospect of winning again. Should it win, does anybody doubt that the governor could contrive to make his loyal lieutenant the odds-on favorite for the top nomination in the 1978 election, the spirit of the open primary notwithstanding?

"I ONLY REGRET THAT I HAVE BUT ONE COUNTRY TO GIVE FOR MY LIFE."

Two billion dollars won't cure crime

This summer the U.S. House of Representatives authorized expenditures of $2 billion to help cities and states "fight crime" for the next two years. The vote was 391 to 0; not a single representative dared to oppose the bill.

Yet there are good grounds for believing that this money will be almost totally wasted, in terms of actually reducing crime. Most of the funds will go for new equipment and more policemen — yet the "crime problem" is remarkably like the "highway problem," in that the more we expand our highways, the more traffic expands to fill them.

Twenty years ago, New York City had a police force of some 18,000. Now it has double that number of men, while the population of the city proper has actually shrunk a little. Nevertheless, the crime rate in New York City has far more than doubled in the intervening two decades. There is not the slightest indication that the added men, or the more sophisticated equipment, have done anything to decrease the incidence of crime.

The "liberals" have been blamed, and justly, for believing that merely spending more money would alleviate our social problems; now the "law-and-order" conservatives are as blameworthy for believing that the same panacea will reduce our crime problem.

Let us look at a medical analogy, to make the point clearer. Suppose we appropriated $2 billion to relieve the victims of a plague, to provide them with medical care, hospital rooms, and sustenance during their illness. This would do nothing to prevent the source of the plague from spreading to other people and other communities.

If, instead, or in addition, we appropriated only a small part of that sum to track down the source of the plague — be it the water supply, or the tsetse fly, or whatever — then we are utilizing our money and resources sensibly in getting to the root of the disease.

Apprehending criminals, and throwing them in prison (though only the little ones get there), does absolutely nothing to eradicate the sources of crime, which are both socio-economic and psychological. In fact, the more transgressors we send to languish in prison — and then throw back into the same milieu they came from — the more embittered and intractable criminals we create.

Like welfare, money spent on crime fighting is a bottomless pit, so long as the basic social conditions are not rectified. The money makes the law-enforcement agencies happy, and the legislators feel virtuous — but, meanwhile, what we call "crime in the streets" will continue to increase until we stop concentrating on the crime and start thinking a little bit about changing the streets.

Kevin Phillips

What is Kennedy's place in history?

Those who wish to venture tenth anniversary estimates of John F. Kennedy's place in history can usefully begin with the shrewd prognosis of Newsweek's Richard Boeth: "What future historians may well note first about John F. Kennedy is what they note first about the Roman Emperor Trajan — this he presided at the highwater mark of empire."

The historic analogy is a wee bit debatable, but the psychological estimate is right on: John Kennedy's appeal to the American people rests on memory of a time of U.S. imperial greatness, not some vague Camelot of (ugh) style and social consciousness.

Ethnic America came of age

If one must give the Kennedy Administration a sociological cachet, it represented the coming of age not of black and brown America, but of ethnic America. His election offered proof positive that Irish Boston, Italian Philadelphia, East European Cleveland or Polish Detroit, having sent their sons to die on Omaha Beach or Suribachi, were finally entitled to see another son serve as President. And for those who may have forgotten, it was a 100 per cent flagwaving, nationalist crusade. John F. Kennedy ran for President with a PT Boat on his tie, a missile gap on his lips, and a Cuban invasion in his briefcase.

But will he be remembered as the American Trajan? I doubt it. Trajan was a great conqueror. He not only presided at the second century zenith of Rome's imperial frontier; he himself established and secured those far-flung boundaries. Visitors to Rome can still see Trajan's Column, just off the Piazza Venezia, decorated with a spiral frieze describing his pacification of the Danube. Trajan also conquered Arabia, founded new cities in Algeria, built an extraordinary bridge across the Danube and won victories as far afield as Persia. And Kennedy? He was a naval lieutenant, Congressman, and then Senator during the heyday of the American Empire. His military contribution was not to imperial expansion but to imperial contraction: After all, what else can one realistically call the Bay of Pigs and Vietnam?

Trajan's memory is built on the bedrock of clearcut military and political achievement; Kennedy's on gallantry, style and historic coincidence — much like General Armistead's brave Southern cavalry who, by dying farthest up the slope at Gettysburg, are immortalized accordingly.

Now he's being repackaged

Because of the infusion of legend — the whole Camelot bit — John Kennedy will be warmly remembered beyond the colder estimate that realpolitik might otherwise venture. Well and good. After all, why not? But let him be remembered for what he was: An imperialist who was proud of the American Empire! John Kennedy may not have been the American Trajan, but he was a far cry from the smarmy lettuce boycotters, social activists, and disarmament peddlers who now engage in repackaging his memory for their own guilt-ridden, anti-nationalistic purposes.

Granted that hardly anybody still wants an American Empire. We're over that hill. History shows that empires often become overly sophisticated about the same time as they begin to suffer military reverses; and this can drain the imperial spirit quickly — witness the United States during the last five years. But retrospective history is smarter than the sophistries, and when the definitive chronicle of America is written, Kennedy's place is likely to rest on imperial criteria — the yardstick suggested by Mr. Boeth — and the New Left types currently parading their shallowness through the pages of The New York Review of Books et al will be properly and negligibly labeled as the cultural flotsam of imperial disintegration.

Services, events set for holiday

100 YEARS AGO
Appleton Crescent, Nov. 22, 1873.

The Congregational, Methodist and Baptist Societies, and citizens generally, will have the pleasure of hearing a Thanksgiving Sermon on Thursday next at the Congregational Church. The Rev. Mr. Grassie, one of the ablest and most interesting divines that has yet occupied an Appleton pulpit, will deliver it. Services are at 11 o'clock.

Thanksgiving Day will be observed at Grace (Episcopal) Church of this city with appropriate services, we are informed.

Complete preparations have been made for the Firemen's Social with the managers of the Fire Company determined to make a complete success of their Thanksgiving Dance. The music committee has engaged the Turner Band of Menasha, which assures good music; the hall will be attractively fitted up, and nothing will be left undone by the floor committee to make the party pleasant and agreeable to all who attend. Let our citizens generally encourage the Boys by their personal presence on that occasion.

The supper part of the programme will be omitted.

25 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, Nov. 17, 1948.

Three Lawrence faculty members were named to sing solo leads in the "Messiah" by Handel when the Lawrence Chorus presents the annual oratorio under Dean Carl J. Waterman in early December. They were soprano Marguerite Schumann, contralto Muriel Engelland Hoile, and baritone William Harder. The fourth soloist was tenor Ralph Nielsen, Chicago.

Mrs. Eugene Fountain was elected president of Monte Alverno Retreat House Guild, succeeding Mrs. Albert St. Pierre.

Mrs. E. F. Zordel, Mrs. Emily Behl, Mrs. Cyril Lippert and Mrs. Gordon Bubolz were members of the music committee for Chaminade Chorus that year.

10 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, Nov. 20, 1963.

It was to be "Turkey Trot" time for the Village Squares when they planned to hold a special Thanksgiving potluck supper and dance in the Combined Locks pavilion. Lyle Leatherman, Menasha, was caller.

The foursome Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mathews, Mr. and Mrs. George Nowell was the committee in charge of the Dancaires Club party at Appleton Elks Club. Thanksgiving decorations, including a life-sized scarecrow set the theme.

Twenty-seven students in the Appleton High art department were to make a field trip to the Chicago Art Institute. Chaperones for the group were Harold Carlson, Peter Giovannini, of the art department, Mrs. Russell Huebner and Mrs. Fred Doctor.

Art Buchwald Sloppiness in the White House

WASHINGTON — One of the things the Nixon Administration was noted for before Watergate was its neatness. It's hard to believe, on the basis of recent revelations, that the President has run one of the sloppiest White Houses of anyone in our history. Records get lost. Tapes don't exist. Notes are misplaced. It's not enough to impeach the President, but it certainly scares the heck out of you.

I can just see the President buzzing his private secretary, Rose Mary Woods.

"Rose Mary, get me that tough note Brezhnev sent me during the Mideast crisis."

"Yessir, Mr. President."

Twenty minutes later, "The note seems to be missing. Mr. President. There's nothing in the Brezhnev folder except a telegram congratulating Princess Anne on her wedding."

"Did you look in the Princess Anne folder?"

"Yes I did, and there is nothing in her folder except John Mitchell's resignation as attorney general."

"Good grief. I have to get a copy of the Soviet note. Did you look in my folder?"

"Yes, I did, Mr. President. The only thing in your folder is your tough note to Brezhnev."

"Well, at least that's something. Let me see it."

"Here it is, Mr. President."

"This isn't the tough note I sent

...ain't nothin' so effective as a few flowers t' brighten up a room, or a yard, or the world.

Waynes separate

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. — Actor John Wayne, 66, and his wife, Pilar, 37, have agreed to a friendly separation.

A family spokesman said Monday that the Waynes were still living in their home and that no final living arrangements have been made. He said there were no immediate plans for divorce.

The Waynes, who were married in 1954 in Hawaii, have three children: Aissa 17, John Ethan 11, and Marissa 6. Wayne was married twice previously.

Short-lived leader

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Isabel Peron was president of Argentina for five hours.

Mrs. Peron assumed the position Monday when her husband, President Juan D. Peron, flew to Uruguay to witness a treaty signing settling a river boundary dispute between the two countries.

Mrs. Peron is vice president and is required by Argentine law to be sworn in as interim president whenever the president is out of the country.

First in series of 'Conflicts'

9:30 - 10:30 - Channel 38 - "Hollywood Television Theatre" offers a nine-part series of "Conflicts." The first, "The Man of Destiny," is an adaptation of George Bernard Shaw's comedy engaging Napoleon Bonaparte and a mysterious woman in a battle of wits. Stacy Keach portrays Napoleon at 27, as a general in northern Italy at the beginning of his career. Samantha Eggar is the Mysterious Lady, a friend of Napoleon's wife, determined to retrieve an indiscreet letter sent by Josephine to another man. Combining fact and fiction, the dialogue is peppery and witty. Keach and Eggar give deliciously humorous performances. William Bassett plays a dimwitted lieutenant and Gino Conforti is the wily innkeeper. This is one of Shaw's least frequently produced plays.

7-7:30 - Channel 5 - "Adam-12" has Malloy (Martin Milner) anxious to meet a new radio operator with a great voice and there's a surprise when he finally does. Cases include a hit-run, a synagogue robbery and a shootout at a movie studio.

7:30 - 9 - Channel 5 - "NBC Mystery Movie: Banacek" is good fun involving the theft of a priceless, jewel-encrusted golden wedding coach from a ship in Boston harbor. A subplot here involves Carlie's (Christine Belford) engagement of staid Henry de Witt (Linden Chiles), also an insurance investigator.

8 - 9 - Channels 2-7 - "Cannon" (William Conrad) is working on a tight deadline, trying to find the kidnapped daughter of a judge whose case involves a syndicate boss. Some good characterizations here and believable dialogue. Kelly Miles is the victim.

9-10 - Channels 2-7 - "Kojak" (Telly Savalas) is after a sex maniac called Excalibur who has killed seven single women over the years. It's a well-done tale that should hold the interest of fans of the genre. Vietnam helps provide a lead to the killer.

9-10 - Channel 5 - "Love Story" has a very good episode with Trish Van Devere (Mrs. George C. Scott) and James Farentino. Once in love, they meet accidentally at an airport. She's in town for a sorority convention and he's a famous writer and they are both married to nice people. Their affair is totally believable and so is their facing of the facts and the nicely ironic conclusion.

Opens tonight

Burt Lancaster (left) and Robert Ryan are the two major stars of "Executive Action," a controversial film dealing with the conspiracy theory in the assassination of President Kennedy. It opens at Cinema 1 tonight.

Wayne Cochran will play Pendulum tonight

Singer Wayne Cochran and his 12 piece band will appear at Appleton's The Pendulum tonight only.

Cochran, sometimes referred to as the white James Brown, has been a popular singer on the soul circuit for many years. He is one of the few white singers to play rhythm and blues music for black audiences successfully.

His act is a frequent attraction in recent years at Las Vegas nightclubs. Cochran's Pendulum appearance will start at 9 p.m.

Today in history

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Nov 21, the 325th day of 1973. There are 40 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On the date in 1877, Thomas A. Edison announced that he had invented the phonograph.

On this date—
In 1789, North Carolina ratified the U.S. Constitution.

In 1806, Napoleon Bonaparte issued the Berlin decrees, declaring a blockade of the British Isles.

In 1894, the Japanese captured the Manchurian city of Port Arthur.

In 1933, William Bullitt became first U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union.

In 1938, the western border areas of Czechoslovakia were forcibly incorporated into the German Reich.

In 1961, West Berlin police turned back thousands of West Berlin University students trying to storm the Communist barriers dividing Berlin.

Ten years ago: The Roman Catholic Vatican Council authorized the use of vernacular languages instead of Latin in the sacraments.

Five years ago: The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People assailed black extremists as a threat to the race.

One year ago: South Korea's President Park won a landslide election victory.

Today's birthdays: Actress Vivian Blaine is 52. Baseball's Stan Musial is 53.

Thought for today: Rest is for the dead — Thomas Carlyle, Scottish writer, 1795-1881.

A "beautiful Crissy" for the grand prize

BY CAPPY DICK
How many coins are in the three stacks of money in the picture? If you count them correctly, you may become the winner of a "Beautiful Crissy" doll as a national grand prize in this contest. Crissy is the doll, manufactured by Ideal Toy Corporation, whose hair can be made to grow.

Count all the coins

Five Crissy dolls will be awarded, one for each of the five nearest and most original correct contest entries among those received from all the cities where this column is published, including Appleton.

In addition, there will be 5 winners of local qualifying prizes in each city. These awards will be miniature comeback tops that are great fun to operate on their strings.

Each top, made of colorful plastic, is only an inch and a quarter in diameter. There is a plastic ring at the free end of the control cord so you can operate the top easily. The 5 tops will be awarded for the 5 nearest and most original contest entries in each city. The winning entries will then compete at the national level for the five Crissy dolls.

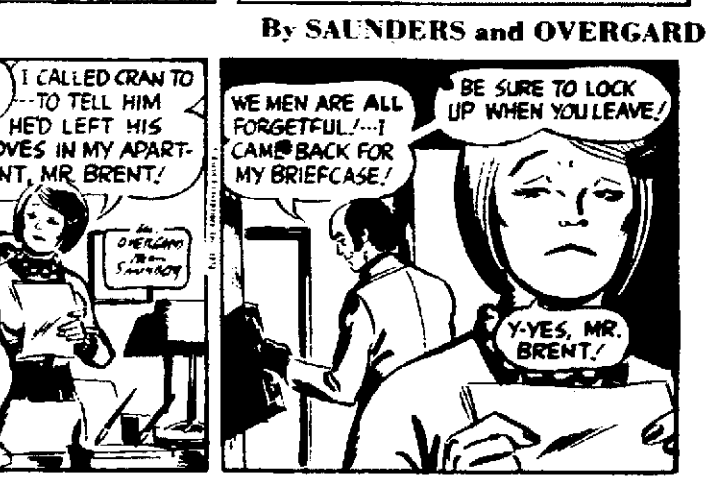

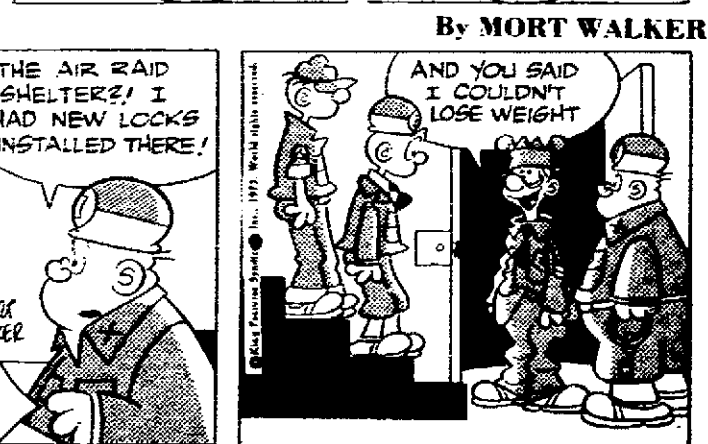

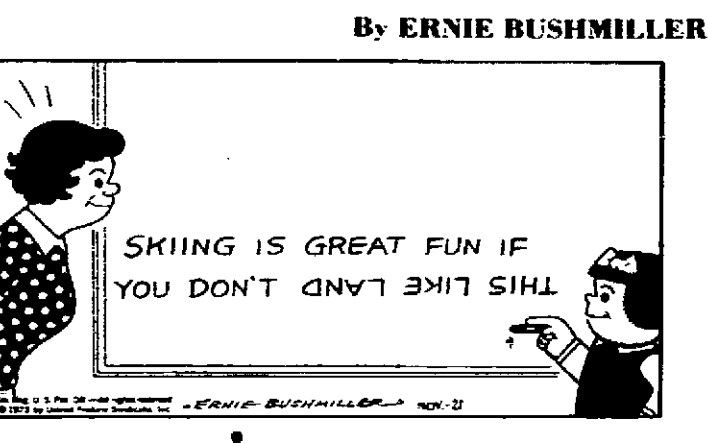

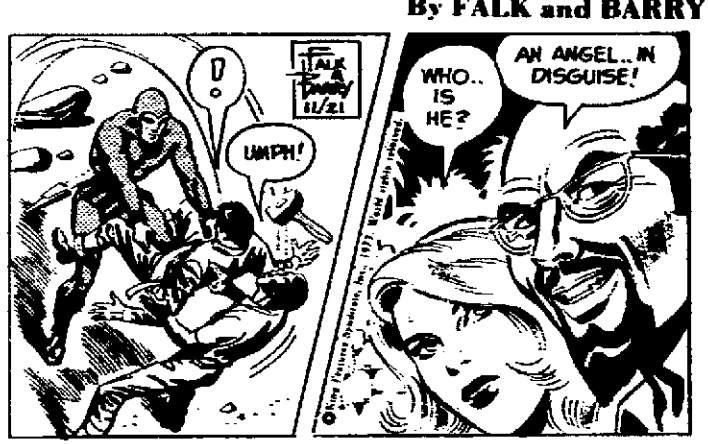

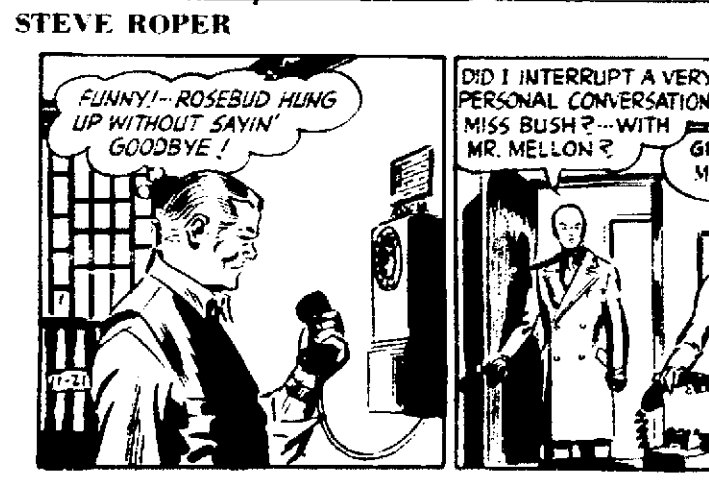

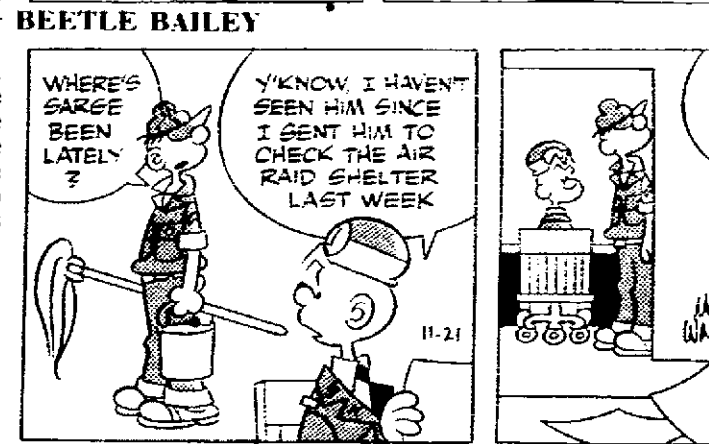

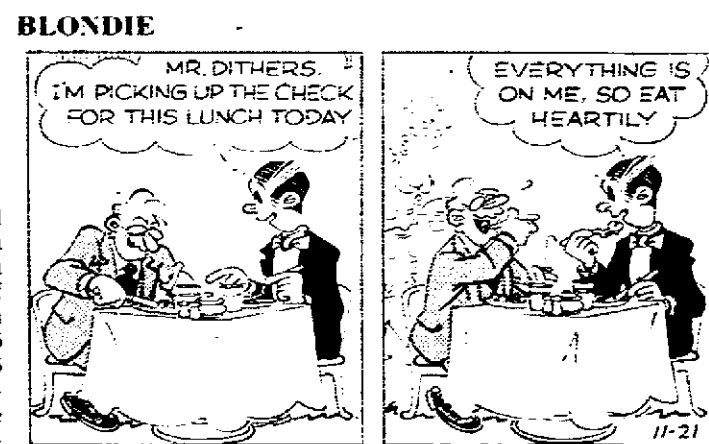

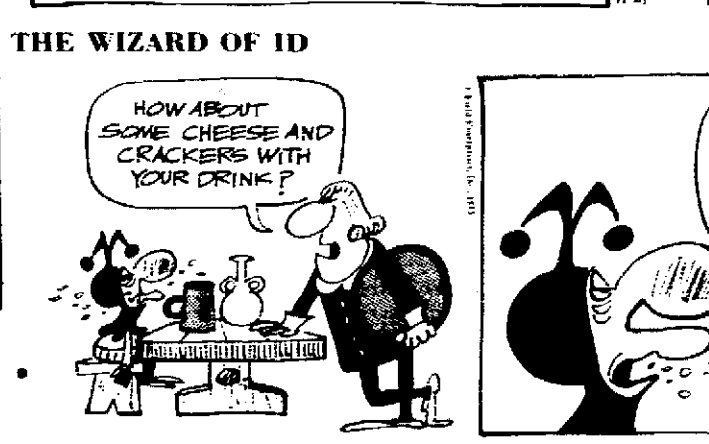

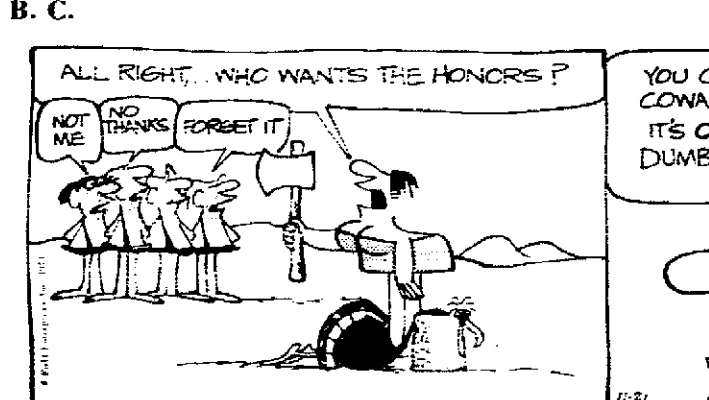

To try for the prizes, carefully count the coins in the three stacks. Next, clip out the picture and paste it on a piece of paper. Beneath it print the total number of coins. Also print your name, age, address and Zip Code number.

Finally, decorate the entry in any neat, original way with paints, crayons or cutouts. Address it to Cappy Dick's Midweek Crissy Doll Contest at the Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

Names of the prize winners will be published here and their awards will be sent to their homes by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none returned.

Tomorrow, how to make a pair of backpack saddle bags!

Lawyers, secrecy for grand juries advanced

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A bill to keep news media away from grand jury investigations while admitting lawyers was endorsed 3-1 Tuesday by the Senate's lawyer-dominated Judiciary and Insurance Committee.

Republican Sen. Roger Murphy, a former Waukesha County prosecutor, voted against the bill, censuring a provision which would allow lawyers to cross-examine witnesses.

Democratic Rep. Edward Nager of Madison appeared before the Senate committee, saying the bill's proposals for tightening grand jury secrecy reflect a reaction on the behalf of Milwaukee Democrats.

The bill was approved 72-24 Oct. 18 by the Assembly.

It calls for grand jury proceedings "in complete secrecy and held in such a manner that no media coverage of witnesses' comings and goings is possible."

Anyone indicted by a grand jury would be guaranteed a preliminary hearing. Grand jury testimony could not be made public until submitted at a trial.

Murphy said the provision for cross-examination by lawyers would hamper attempts by prosecutors to conduct an uninterrupted investigation.

"You will never get anything done in a grand jury if you have an adversary system from the very beginning," he said.

The Senate committee also approved an alternate bill by Nager to allow counsel at grand jury sessions. The bill, also approved by the Assembly, does not concern itself with secrecy nor with cross-examination by counsel.

Nager said the bill which Murphy opposed represents "a complete over-reaction to certain proceedings held in the City of Milwaukee."

His remark referred to recent investigations of Richard C. Nowakowski, chairman of Milwaukee County's Board of Supervisors and a former Democratic legislator.

The bill is sponsored by Rep. Paul Sicula and Rep. Joseph Czerwinski, both Milwaukee Democrats.

Nager also objected to the provision for allowing lawyers to cross-examine witnesses.

"The mere presence of counsel to advise his client on how to answer questions is not enough," Sicula replied.

In defense of the secrecy provision, Sicula cited what he called public exposure of witnesses through newspaper photographs during the Nowakowski proceedings.

"Let the judge have the obligation and responsibility to cordon off the corridors," Sicula said, insisting he was not critical of news media photography but "of a system of justice that allows that."

Murphy also protested about a provision in Sicula's bill to allow witnesses to get a list of witnesses who might have testified about him.

Murphy described it as an "assassinations list."

The committee chairman, Republican Sen. Gerald Lorge, said he was amazed that Republican Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren was not represented.

"It is really a dereliction of duty," Lorge said.

The only other witnesses to testify was a spokesman for the Democratic Youth Caucus of Wisconsin.

Lorge said he was "shocked that the attorney general's office is not represented here, or anyone experienced in dealing with John does or grand juries."

Pregnancy sick pay order voided

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A state decision to treat pregnancy like any other disabling physical condition for sick pay purposes violated the Wisconsin Telephone Company's right to due process of law, a Circuit Court judge ruled this week.

Judge Norris Maloney said the Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations sidestepped legal requirements for making administrative rules when it issued a pregnancy guideline.

Maloney voided the department's order that Wisconsin Telephone pay Karen Smith of Milwaukee sick pay for the time she was away from work while bearing a child.

Miss Smith had complained that Wisconsin Telephone discriminated against her on the basis of sex by leaving time off for childbirth out of the sick pay clause of her employment contract.

The department's guideline interprets such a contract provision as a violation of Wisconsin's Fair Employment Practices Act, David Rice, an attorney for the agency, said.

Maloney called the guideline "not merely informational, but ... intended to have the effect of law."

State agencies are supposed to formally promulgate a rule which has the effect of law so the legislature's Joint Committee on Administrative Rules can have a chance to suspend one if it feels the rule exceeded the legislature's intended grant of authority to the agency.

Unless the legislature specifically repeals the rule the next time it is in session, the rule again goes into effect.

The committee threatened to suspend a pregnancy rule proposed by the department, so the agency withdrew the rule and substituted the guideline.

Maloney's decision said those actions "violated the employer's constitutional rights to due process of law at every turn of the road."

The guidelines on pregnancy were never lawfully adopted, he said.

Used car defect disclosure compromise bill endorsed

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A state rule which would require auto dealers to itemize defects of a used car was endorsed Tuesday by the legislature's Joint Committee for Review of Administrative Rules.

The consumer protection feature was approved 5-1 after Democratic Lt. Gov. Martin Schreiber said inflationary interest rates and prices of new cars have increased consumer demand for less-costly secondhand vehicles.

Republican Rep. Tommy Thompson of Elroy opposed the committee's action, saying the panel should make certain that a previous, more demanding rule has been replaced.

The rule endorsed Tuesday is a compromise which had the approval of the Wisconsin Automotive Trades Association.

The committee had suspended the previous rule under which dealers would have to provide customers with a list of mechanical and structural defects in a second-hand car the customer is purchasing.

Thompson objected when the committee agreed to withdraw its legislative bill which would have made the suspension permanent.

Thompson said he favors the compromise disclosure rule, but that the suspension bill should not be withdrawn until a new rule is enacted. The Motor Vehicles Division must hold a hearing before the compromise disclosure rule is effective.

The compromise rule would require a disclosure list covering a vehicle's frame, body, transmission, engine, drive shaft, differential, electrical system, cooling system, fuel system and many accessories.

The Automotive Trades Association lobbied against the original rule.

Gary D. Williams, the association's executive vice president, told the committee his organization plans to testify against some disclosure requirements, such as "normal oil seepage" and frame cracks.

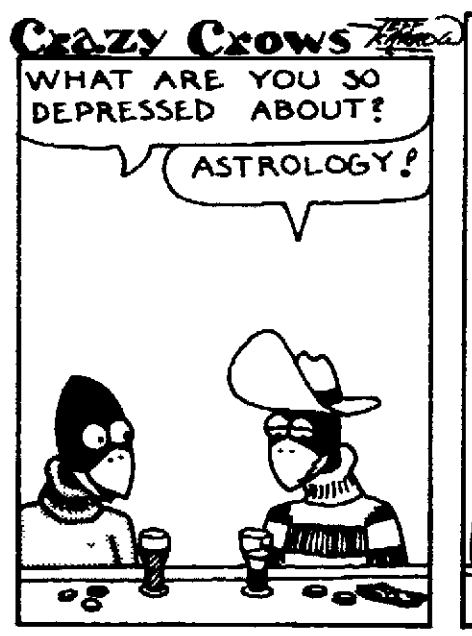

Schreiber said in a statement that the checklist rule could be stronger, but is "a reasonable compromise" between dealers and consumer advocates.

Kaukauna board to discuss permit ruling

KAUKAUNA — The board of appeals will meet at 4 p.m., Nov. 27, to consider the request of James Van Deraa, 319 Reaume Ave., for a change in a ruling by the building inspector to deny him a building permit for a garage.

Inspector Harold Loeser reported that Van Deraa has encroached into public right-of-way by constructing an excavated carport and now wants to complete the carport by completely enclosing same as a garage.

Loeser said that the 25-foot setback requirement would not be met and the building would be on street right-of-way of Fourth Street west between Reaume Avenue and Miner Street.

UW medical center construction speedup gets commission OK

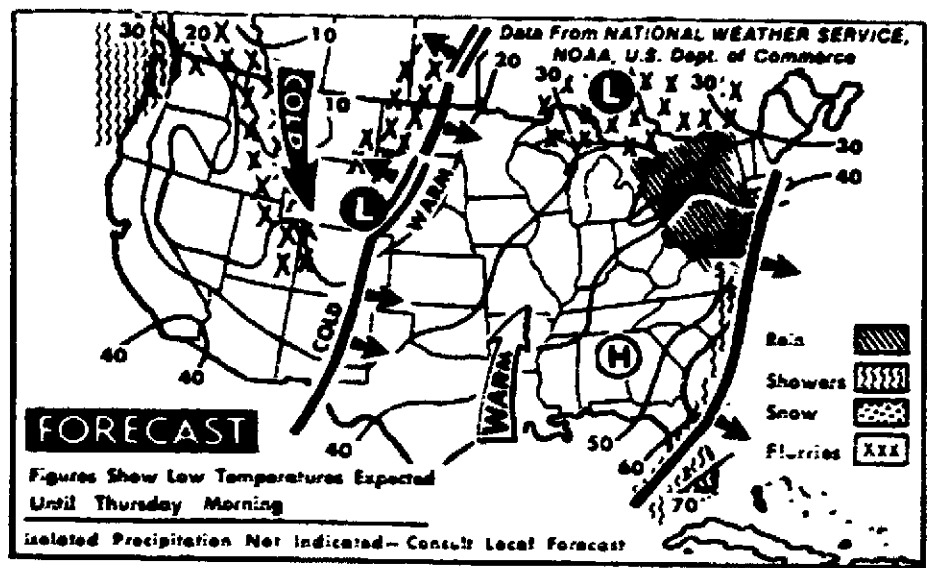

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The State Building Commission approved Tuesday a plan to speed construction of an $80 million University of Wisconsin health center.

Dr. Robert Cooke, vice chancellor of the center, said delays could cost extra money because of inflation.

The plan would enable the state to accept bids on portions of the project while waiting completion of other plans.

Gov. Patrick J. Lucey said he would urge the legislature to allow "fast tracking" for the project.

The bill might be submitted to a special legislative session if one is called, he said.
